DR. AND MRS. W. F. QUILLIAN

"Ten years ago Dr. Quillian was called by the Board of Trustees to the presidency of Wesleyan College. During these years, supported at all times by the constancy and fidelity of his wife, Dr. Quillian has rendered a distinguished service in the field of Christian education for young womanhood. Under his administration the scholastic standards of Wesleyan have been advanced until the dear old college has been recognized by every standardizing agency in the field of American education. Under his guiding hand the dream of years has been given form and substance by the erection of a new college on the broad acres of the Rivoli campus, dowering this gracious mother of colleges with a physical plant unsurpassed, if indeed it is equalled, by any other in the South."—Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, Chairman Board of Trustees.

Dr. Quillian Leaves Wesleyan

The announcement in May of the action of the General Conference of the Methodist Church South electing Dr. W. F. Quillian to the newly-created office of Secretary of Christian Education came as a shock to Wesleyan. Commencement in 1930 was saddened by the fact that Dr. and Mrs. Quillian were so soon to leave.

The year 1920, which marked the beginning of Dr. Quillian's term as president of Wesleyan College, was also the beginning of a great forward step for the college. Materially, financially, and scholastically, Wesleyan has made great progress under Dr. Quillian.

The faculty and the student body have more than doubled since June 1, 1920. The plant, which ten years ago represented $500,000, has been built up to a present valuation of $2,300,000, while the endowment has more than trebled. In total assets the growth during this period is represented by the figures $745,000 in 1920 and above $3,000,000 in 1930. The college has been moved to its present campus of 172 acres with twelve splendid buildings and the Conservatory of Music and School of Fine Arts has been established.

Wesleyan has advanced steadily in curriculum, and is today approved by the American Association of Universities, the highest standardizing agency in the educational world.

The greatest credit for bringing these undertakings to a successful conclusion is due to Dr. Quillian. It was his faith and vision, more than any other one thing, which made the Greater Wesleyan possible.

"Faith and Vision"

In a recent editorial in the Macon Telegraph at the time of Dr. Quillian's resignation, this tribute was paid him:

"The quiet man who seems so often in repose is actually a dynamo that is never in repose. He treads softly and moves quietly and eschews the fanfare of trumpets and the roll of drums in getting his work done, but he gets an enormous amount of it done. Without ostentation, there comes from Wesleyan ever so often the word that some great new undertaking has been set in motion and one knows that Dr. Quillian's imagination has been feverish again.

"If he had purely the imaginative quality, Dr. Quillian would not be the success he has been. Others have visioned the great new Wesleyan that stands out on the Rivoli plateau, but it was he who transformed the dream into actuality. Under his inspiration and direction, the alumnae of the college have been drawn into an active working unit that is eternally busy in behalf of their college. Under his inspiration, a spirit of loyalty and enthusiasm was generated within the faculty that has meant much to the institution. But his task was even greater than the mere creation of an esprit de corps.

"Dr. Quillian was confronted, when he endeavored to uproot a college that had occupied its historic site for 90 years, by the doubts and fears of the brothers of less faith, but he marched sublimely on in that grand faith which believes that mountains may be moved, and that somehow, worthwhile projects will be seen through. The new Wesleyan, out there on her quad, is the finest monument a Methodist man of God might have to his own faith."

Gifts of Faculty, Trustees, Students

Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, chairman of the Board of Trustees, at the graduation exercises on Monday, June 2, addressed President and Mrs. W. F. Quillian as follows:

"These, Dr. Quillian, have been the most fruitful years of your life. The expanding Wesleyan through all the future will stand as a monument to your distinguished and unselfish service.

"Everybody is saddened that you have felt impelled to answer the call of the church to another sphere of service. We would, with one accord, lay restraining hands upon you if we could, but since this cannot now be done, we send you forth baptized with the prayers and affections of a great host of Wesleyan women, who will ever honor you for your work and labor of love in their behalf.

"In the name of the Faculty, Administrative Staff, and Board of Trustees of the college, I am presenting to you this silver service—the best our money could buy. But please remember that no crystal draught from these vessels of silver and gold will ever be half so pure as the love of those who gave it."

Elizabeth Anderson, president of the Student Government Association, representing the students, presented to Dr. and Mrs. Quillian a silver pitcher and goblets to match the tea service. The Conservatory faculty and officials presented a silver bowl.

Resolutions

Professor George E. Rosser, head of the department of Biblical literature, read the following resolutions from the faculty:

"Whereas, in the all-wise providence of God, our great and beloved president, Dr. William Fletcher Quillian, has been assigned by the voice of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to the honored place and work of Secretary of the newly created General Board of Education of that church, thus necessitating his resignation as president of historic Wesleyan College; and

"Whereas, the decade of Dr. Quillian's presidency over Wesleyan has been, through his heroic faithfulness, utter devotion and evident genius, certainly one of the most notable periods in the long and unique history of this mother and queen of institutions throughout the world for the education of womanhood; and

"Whereas, by his eminent ability, his powerful and gracious personality, his Christian spirit and self-sacrificing and useful life, Dr. Quillian has won, in the fullest measure, the esteem and affection of his co-workers, the members of the Faculty and Board of Trustees of the college; therefore, be it

"Resolved, first, that while we lament his finding it necessary to sever his relation as president of the college, we fervently congratulate him, his devoted and faithful wife, and their children, upon his elevation by the General Conference to the great position and glorious work to which he has been called; assuring him of our most earnest good wishes and prayers for the welfare of himself and his family, and for his abundant success in his new work;

"Resolved, second, that we rejoice that in his new position he will continue to have the relation of general supervision of the college, to whose welfare and progress, we know, he is devoted and into whose life and history he has projected his hand and spirit for all the years to come; thus bringing him back from time to time to our campus;

"Resolved, third, that we pledge ourselves individually and collectively to do our utmost toward the fulfillment of the great plans initiated under his administration for the college, in which plans such marvelous progress has been made under his leadership during the past decade; and

"Resolved, fourth, that as a slight token of our gratitude, esteem and love, we, the members of the Faculty and Board of Trustees of Wesleyan College, present this gift, trusting that it will be through the years a reminder of gracious associations in the great and sacred work in which we have long labored together, and a further bond of that love which can only become deeper with the passing of the years and tenderer under the mystic touch of memory."

The New Position

Whether Wesleyan or the Christian Education Board needs Dr. Quillian most was a matter of much discussion immediately after his election. At the last faculty meeting of the year, Dr. Quillian said:

"I have no misgivings about the new work; it is a direct call of God. However, I do not propose to let up on getting money for Wesleyan until the amount she needs is raised."

He spoke of the Wesleyan spirit, saying that it is the most valuable of all the college's possessions. It is traceable, he believes, to the Christian atmosphere of Wesleyan and should be preserved above all things that Wesleyan prizes.

Mrs. Quillian Gives Scholarship Fund

As an expression of her devotion to Wesleyan, Nonie (Acree) Quillian gave to the college in May a scholarship fund of $500 to be used to help foreign students. Mrs. Quillian has been, during the ten years of Dr. Quillian's presidency at Wesleyan, a close friend and foster-mother to the girls from foreign lands, counseling and encouraging them and many times making herself responsible for securing funds to help them carry on their education. She feels that as additional funds are added to the nucleus she has established, Wesleyan will get many fine students from afar.

In the dining room of the college on the day of graduation, Nonie (Acree) Quillian was introduced to the alumnae of the college, and expressed in these words, her feeling for Wesleyan:

"If I can control the deep stirrings of my heart, I have a message that I want to leave with you. I feel that I am playing a double role today in my relationship to our Wesleyan—that of daughter and mother. It is not an unusual thing for a daughter to have a motherly attitude toward her own mother. She begins to bestow upon her mother the feelings of tenderness, love and constant vigilance in the same way the mother cared for her in earlier years.

"For several days this verse has been in my mind and heart: 'Take this child and nurse it for me and I will pay thee thy wages.' So, in September we will not only leave with others our own eighteen-year-old daughter, but we leave also our Wesleyan, who though a mother to thousands of daughters is in some ways an infant to us. Therefore, we make this request and promise, 'Take these, our children, and nurse them for us and we will pay thee thy wages' which will always be our love, loyalty and cooperation.

"To Our Girls, who have brought into our hearts and lives so much of joy and happiness, I would say: 'Many daughters have done worthily, but thou excellest them all.'

"And to our friends of the Faculty and Board of Trustees: 'My heart is lifted in praise and gratitude for the love, the friendship, the wonderful loyalty and cooperation that you have so abundantly given. God bless thee and keep thee and cause His face to shine upon thee and give thee peace'."

Phi Mu Scholarship

From the Phi Mu Aglaia for May, 1930:

Three years ago, at the time of our seventy-fifth anniversary convention in Macon, Georgia, an annual scholarship was voted to Wesleyan College as a memorial to Phi Mu on the campus where the sorority was founded.

The scholarship has been awarded each year since and a recent report by college authorities expresses deep appreciation for the gift. Three young women students of Wesleyan have been aided in continuing their undergraduate work through the Phi Mu generosity.

The need for gift scholarships at Wesleyan was stressed in the report which stated that "if we had other scholarship funds like those provided by Phi Mu, from which we were allowed to make gifts to help out girls like these three, it would greatly help, not only the student, but Wesleyan College."

Professor Leon P. Smith, Dean

The announcement of a new dean to succeed Dr. W. K. Greene was received at Wesleyan with great satisfaction, although Dean Leon P. Smith, for eighteen years one of Wesleyan's most-loved professors, could hardly be called "new" in the position of dean.

As chairman of the committee on admissions for a number of years, Professor Smith has kept in close touch with the work of the dean's office, and through his connections with the various educational organizations is familiar with the latest developments in curriculum and entrance requirements of other colleges.

Dean Smith received his A.B. degree from Emory University in 1892. He was recently honored by his Alma Mater in his election to Phi Beta Kappa. He received the M. S. degree in chemistry and geology at the University of Chicago in 1915. He was president of the Georgia State Association of Colleges 1915-1918, and of the Southern Association of Women's Colleges in 1923. He is a member of the National Economic League, of the American Association of University Professors, the Kappa Alpha Fraternity, and of the Georgia Academy of Science.

The highest honor was paid him in February in his election as president of the Georgia Academy of Science. He is a member of the Palaver Club, an organization of prominent Macon men interested in things cultural.

From 1903 to 1912, Dean Smith was dean of LaGrange College in LaGrange, Ga. Since 1912, he has been head of the department of physical sciences at Wesleyan, and since 1918 has been vice-president.

Dean Smith is recognized as one of the authorities on geology of the southeastern United States, especially on gem stones and volcanic rocks. He has been very much interested in the economic geological resources of Georgia and has written many articles on geology for newspapers and scientific magazines.

It is not his scholastic attainments, however, that the Wesleyan girl thinks of first in connection with Dean Smith, but of his charm of personality, his sincere interest in every girl with whom he has been associated as a teacher, and with his remarkable memory of faces, names, and incidents connected with everyone he knows.

He is closely linked with Wesleyan, not only through his own associations, but through his family. His daughter, Elizabeth, graduated in the class of 1927. His youngest daughter, Maidee, is a student at Wesleyan. Two of his sons married Wesleyan graduates; the oldest, Bigham, southern representative for the Harold-Leber Company, manufacturers of cotton mill machinery, married Dorothy (Ware) Smith, of the class of 1920; the second son, Leon P. Smith, Jr., married Mildred Harris of the class of 1922. Leon Smith, Jr., taught Italian at Wesleyan Conservatory for three years. He will receive his Ph. D. degree from the University of Chicago this year.

Faculty Changes for 1930-31

The head of the English department for next year, succeeding Dr. W. K. Greene who returns to Duke University, is Dr. George W. Gignilliat. Dr. Gignilliat received his A.B. degree from Davidson College, his A.M. from Harvard University, and his Ph.D. from Columbia.

Professor J. M. Almand, who will receive his Ph.D. degree from Johns Hopkins this summer, will be assistant professor of chemistry, taking the place of Miss Leona Letson, who was married in June. He has been teaching at Emory Junior College in Valdosta.

Miss Katherine Rountree, who graduated at Wesleyan college and received her master's degree in science at Emory University, will be assistant professor of biology, taking the place of Miss Edna Patterson who was married in the summer. She has been teaching at Columbia College, Columbia, S. C.

JUNIOR MARSHALS FORM RECEPTION COMMITTEE

Each year 18 members of the junior class are honored by being named "Commencement Marshals" by a committee of the faculty. They are chosen from the juniors who stand high in scholarship, leadership and loyalty to the college being important considerations. They act as leaders in the Academic Processions at Commencement and as ushers for the Baccalaureate Sermon and Graduation Exercises.

This year the Junior Marshals acted in still another capacity—that of Reception Committee to the home-coming alumnae. If you were one of the "old girls" who came back to reunion this year, the two girls who met you with charming smiles and enthusiastic greetings in the loggia and showed you to your room were two of the marshals. They kept the registration book, acted as guides over the campus, directed reunioners to their special tables in the dining room Saturday morning; in fact, showed alumnae that the old "Wesleyan spirit" of cordiality and hospitality is as strong as ever.

Elizabeth Anderson, president of Student Government for 1930-31, niece of Linda (McKinney) Anderson, '93, was head marshal.

ALUMNAE TEA

The Alumnae Tea is one of the unforgettable spots of Commencement for reunioners every year. The tea this year, under the efficient planning of Annie (Gantt) Anderson, '13, Commencement Chairman, was one of the most beautiful ever given by the Alumnae Association.

The Grand Parlor was decorated with large vases of hydrangea; the punch table in the lobby was banked with green.

During the afternoon Alleen (Poer) Hinton, '12, presented the silver cup given by the Alumnae Association to the reunion class which made the most striking appearance at Tick Tock and the Lonesome Fairy, a playlet written especially for the players, Kathleen Jennings and Irma Goldman.

The chairmen of committees in charge of the tea were: decorations, Martha (Riley) Holiday; refreshments, Pauline (Pierce) Corn; serving, Willie (Erminger) Mallary.

Wesleyan Conservatory Commencement

The graduation Soiree and Commencement exercises of the Wesleyan Conservatory of Music and School of Fine Arts took place Saturday evening, May 31.

Diplomas were given to 18 students and certificates to 19. The graduates gave a concert in piano, voice, and pipe organ, three of the artists being scholarship graduates who were continuing their studies, Marjorie Jacob, Elizabeth Fort, and Elizabeth Holcombe.

The following students received the diploma in piano: Josephine Fuqua, Estelle Walker (honor graduate); in voice: Augusta Mallory; in organ: Dorothy Griffin, Emily Lawton; teacher's diploma in piano: Esther Barnes, Winifred Darsey; teacher's diploma in voice: Winifred Darsey, Alice Rustin, Carolyn Waters; certificate of graduation in art: Elizabeth Barrett, Louise Upshaw; certificate of graduation in dramatic art: Virginia Appleby, Josephine Hunt, Marian Dean Johnson, Jimmie Lee Overstreet, Alice Rustin, Mrs. Katherine Simmons Dixon (honor graduate), and Mary Wynelle Talley.

CERTIFICATES

Those to whom certificates were awarded were: in piano, Carolyn Bell, Carolyn Bowman, Effie Mae Dunn, Mary Josephine Holmes, Mary Richardson; in voice: Evelyn Crawford, Josephine Fuqua, Mary McDaniel, Louise Stanford, Louise Thaxton; in organ: Carolyn Bell, Mildred Goodrum, Lenelle Lee, Maidee Elwyn Taylor, Estelle Walker; in art: Rosa Vickers, Helen Floy Wallace; in ceramic art: Clyde Tabor, Louise Upshaw, and Josephine Willingham.

FIRST CONSERVATORY LOAN FUND

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees, a loan fund of $1,000, to the Conservatory of Music was announced. The fund is the gift of the Saturday Morning Music Club of Macon, of which Mrs. Doris Onderdonk Jelks, teacher of organ at the Conservatory, is president. It will be known as the Saturday Morning Music Club Loan Fund.

CONSERVATORY REUNION PLANNED

The first steps toward holding a distinct reunion of alumnae of the Wesleyan Conservatory who graduated since that institution was separated from the college, were taken Commencement at the annual meeting of the Alpha Omega honorary society of the Conservatory.

Elizabeth Holcombe, Elizabeth Barrett, Frances Owens and Mildred (McCrory) Mitchell will be in charge of the reunion plans. The plan will be to have all alumnae starting with 1925, when the schools were separated, to gather next June. Programs and special features will be worked out.

Three students of the Conservatory were elected to membership in the honorary society, Elizabeth Barrett, Estelle Walker, and Katherine (Simmons) Dixon. Etta Mae Davenport of the class of 1927, was elected an alumnae member.

Officers of the society are: president, Elizabeth Barrett; vice-president, Nannette Ruff; secretary, Elizabeth Holcombe; treasurer, Frances Owens.

Commencement Guests

The college entertained a total of 156 alumnae guests at Commencement, 116 reunioners, and 40 non-reunioners.

The class of 1922 had the largest attendance at Commencement with 21 members present.

The class of 1921 won the cup for the best "skit" at the Alumnae meeting, Saturday, May 31.

The class of 1884, with 20 living graduates, had ten members of the class present at reunion, and had messages from six of those who were unable to be present.

The class of 1904 had the largest attendance of the middle group of classes, with 14 members present.

The classes of 1920 and 1921 came from the greatest distances. 1920 had one member from New York, one from North Carolina, and one from Alabama. 1921 had one from East Orange, N. J., one from Cincinnati, Ohio, one from South Carolina, one from Alabama, and one from Florida.

The oldest living alumna of Wesleyan, Loula (Kendall) Rogers, 1857, was present for Commencement.

Why College Educations?

Soon after Commencement, this hilarious story of Wesleyan class reunions appeared in The Macon Telegraph. The author is, of course, Willie (Snow) Ethridge, class secretary of 1920, one of the twelve reunion classes in 1930.

I discovered the real reason for a college education at the commencement exercises of Wesleyan a few days ago. It is not to prepare the youth of the land for life, as some one has so loftily said; but it is to furnish the alumnae with anecdotes to tell the rest of their lives at class reunions.

And it is a high and noble purpose, for what would an alumna do at her class reunion if her college hadn't furnished her with a well of prankish stories from which to draw? (I mention an alumna instead of the masculine alumnus, for, of course, an alumnus could get drunk) Suppose her college had been narrow and old fashioned and had filled her mind with problems in economics; the perspective of social evolution; the Victorian age; the pre-Raphaelite movement and the French Revolution instead of with light and hair raising incidents, wouldn't she be a tragic figure? Ah, tch, tch, I shudder to think of her. She would be a complete outsider at all the class banquets and a total loss at the alumnae exercises.

For can you imagine her demanding with her eyes as big as golf balls and her voice high with excitement: "My dears, do you remember the day we traced the growth of Keat's powers of expression? Wasn't it simply gorgeous? I could have died. And his beautiful words . . . Gosh, how I loved them?"

Or can you hear her screeching out in the middle of another old grad's yarn: "And wasn't it fun when we learned that the methods of social progress are eugenics, euthenics, education, biological evolution and social evolution? And you remember that heavenly week we spent comparing the various ways that Coleridge and Shelley and Byron described old bald Mount Blanc—"that most awful form"?"

No, of course, you can't imagine her, for there is no such alumna. Every old girl comes back to her alma mater with her mind a sparkling lake of bubbling memories, which have no connection with classes, lessons, pages and books. They are memories of gory, encounters with professors and matrons; of school girl love affairs; of basketball clashes and junior proms; of stealthy stunts and daring escapades. She talks hours about such thrilling happenings without ever once mentioning a book. Hearing her, you would never dream that the printing press had even been invented when she went to school.

* * *

There were twelve Wesleyan classes, I believe, who staged reunions this commencement and a hundred or more alumnae came back to review their college days, which is to say, their college pranks. It didn't matter whether they were eighty years old or twenty-seven, they had all fallen into some terrible devilment when they were Wesleyannes and they could scarcely wait to tell about it.

There was the one with the sweet face, who, about the time she and all her school mates ran away from Wesleyan on April's Fool Day at four o'clock in the morning to spend the day picnicking in the woods. How wet her little grey eyes grew as she talked and how pink her cheeks! The words tumbled on top of each other as she described Dr. Bass praying for them that night until he was exhausted; then, as he dropped out, ordering Brother Smith to take up the praying where he left off.

Then there was the jolly, laughing lady with auburn hair whose recollections centered around the tempestuous night that the girls were restricted for two whole weeks for leaving their rooms during quiet hours.

Then there was I, who insisted on telling what I considered my two most valuable college experiences. One of these taught me that newspaper reporters are dangerous and the other that the Star Spangled Banner is not a triumphant air by which to march. If I do say it myself, they are perfect reunion stories for they have nothing to do with education.

* * *

The first of these experiences befell me when I was a freshman taking English from Miss Virginia Garner. One November day she ordered the members of the class to write a Christmas poem. It could be a lyric, or an ode, or . . . or . . . whatever kind of poems there are. (This part of the story right here is entirely too bookish for a reunion, I know, but I'll be over it in a moment.)

To encourage us, Miss Garner said that if the poems were good we could put them on Christmas cards and mail them, perhaps, to the soldiers on the Mexican border. (This was when the soldiers were on the Rio Grande just before the World War not during the Mexican War.)

The afternoon after we received that assignment I went riding with a newspaper reporter. It was before I knew reporters as I do now and I was very anxious to get this particular one interested in me. I threw out the line that I couldn't ride very long, for I had to get home to write a love sonnet to a soldier boy.

"A love sonnet!" exclaimed the reporter, more charmed with me than I had even dared hope. "You've got to write a love sonnet to a soldier?"

"I should say I have. Miss Garner is making every freshman write a sonnet to send a soldier at Christmas. She says it is our patriotic duty to cheer the soldiers up."

"Tell me more," he begged, and I, very much pleased with myself, told him all that I could make up.

It was the next morning that I learned my lesson. On the front page of The Telegraph was the head: "Wesleyan Girls Write Love Sonnets to Soldiers." Beneath the head was a very complete account about Miss Garner assigning this task of patriotic devotion to her freshman class.

I went to English that morning wan and weak. I knew there were sharp boulders ahead of me.

"A young lady in this class has badly misrepresented the truth," Miss Garner began slowly, stabbing each girl with her steely blue eye. "I never once mentioned yesterday your writing love sonnets. Love sonnets, the very idea! In the first place you haven't enough sense to write sonnets, and in the second place you know nothing of love."

There was more, but I became unconscious and did not come to until she was demanding: "Will the young lady who told this travesty on the truth be good enough to admit it?"

Somehow I got to my feet. Miss Garner gave my terrified face one look and her heart melted. "It is perfectly all right, dear," she soothed. "Sit down."

I sat; but I have had it in for that reporter ever since, as he can tell you, if you ask him.

* * *

The second experience involved an admiral, and no less a one than Admiral W. S. Benson, commander-in-chief of the American navy during the World War. He came to Macon in 1919 and the Wesleyan seniors, of whom I was one, asked him to be their guest at a banquet. He accepted and a big evening was planned. Around 700 people were invited to meet him.

The Admiral, twelve other guests and I who was acting as toastmaster through an oversight, were to march in after the others had been seated. It was to be a grand entrance with the band playing, the guests applauding and the Admiral in his uniform and medals parading to his place in the center of the room.

Desiring a good, stirring air for this Big Parade, I chose the Star Spangled Banner. A fine, patriotic tune, I figured, just the things to start the evening off with snap. I instructed the orchestra to play it until the audience was seated. But at the first strain the Admiral flung his hand to his temple and stop dead in his tracks.

After one surprised moment, I gave the arm upon which I leaned a tug, but the admiral did not budge. Then I murmured sweetly: "Come right on with me, Admiral. There is nothing to be afraid of." But, no he would not move.

When I was on the verge of pushing him, he muttered: "Don't you hear what the orchestra is playing?"

It was then I realized that the Admiral had to stand at attention the entire time the Star Spangled Banner was being played and I had instructed the orchestra to play it until he was seated.

I grew to be an old woman in those next minutes; but finally when the musicians were repeating it for the third time, some one—I think it was beloved Mrs. Burks—reached them and whispered: "Play Over There."

That, of course, was a tragic incident then; but that is the type that makes the best reunion stories later. My college did its very best by me.

Classmates of Fifty Years Ago

The class of 1880 regularly has its reunion next year, according to the Dix chart. There is a charm, however, about a "fiftieth" reunion that made these two classmates long to be back this year as well as in 1931.

CLASSMATES OF 1880
SALLIE (GOODALL) WILLIAMS
ELEANOR (SETLEY) BRODNAX

Two graduates of 1880 met at Wesleyan this Commencement after fifty years of separation. They were Sallie (Goodall) Williams of Macon, and Eleanor (Setley) Brodnax, of Coral Gables, Fla.

Sallie (Goodall) Williams made herself responsible for Wesleyan's oldest living graduate, Loula (Kendall) Rogers, and was her roommate and companion during Commencement. She wrote after Commencement: "It will always linger with me. I had no idea of the beauty and greatness of this place. Truly it was 'Sallie-in-Wonderland' for Wonderland it is! Let me say right now that the Commencement of 1931 will find me in this entrancing place again if it is within the limit of possibility. I had a lovely letter from Loula (Kendall) Rogers a few days ago and this, among other 'memories' connected with Wesleyan, I shall present to the college in 1931—when we have our class reunion."

Eleanor (Setley) Brodnax is wearing her graduation "badge" in the picture of the 1880 classmates. She, too, plans to return next year for the class reunion.

Reunion of 1883 Dedicates Song to Wesleyan

Susie (Derry) Parker, '83, of Jacksonville, Fla., wrote words and music of the following hymn, which she has given to her Alma Mater at Commencement, it was sung by a group of Conservatory students, with Mrs. Howerton as accompanist. It has a stirring, martial swing and rich chords:

OUR COMMANDER

Soldiers of one great nation,
No matter what the creed,
With only one Commander
And with victory our meed,
We keep our banners flying
For God's own liberty,
Like soldiers brave relying
Upon our Captain's lead.

No foe can stand before us
No weapon can avail,
The Spirit's sword is mighty
And with giants will prevail.
With helmet of Salvation,
Breastplate of righteousness,
The shield of Faith for strong defense,
Our armour cannot fail.

The Hosts of Heaven are marching,
A glorious, mighty throng,
They bear the seal of victory,
And on their lips a song.
We do not fight unaided,
The battle is the Lord's,
We follow our Commander—
O Son of God lead on!

Reunion of 1884

Of the 20 living graduates of '84, ten were present for the reunion, and six of the absent ones sent messages to their classmates. Isn't that a fine per cent?

And what a delightful time the ten who came back did have! Perhaps the best of all was the evening they spent at the home of their secretary, Martha Rogers, on College Street. Claudia Middlebrooks wrote of it:

"Truly, wasn't it a joy to meet the old girls and be able to talk freely with folks who could really 'speak our own language!' And then that lovely time you gave us in your beautiful home—the 'outshiningest' part of all. You, together with your sister and niece, made us have a most delightful time, one that we will love to remember always. And please tell the precious little fairy who served us so graciously that she took my heart by storm, and that much as I enjoyed them, I still feel mean about eating those beautiful rosettes she dispensed so generously."

and declares that it "was great success, especially the social meeting at Mattie's."

Carrie Belle (Johnson) Rodgers came all the way from Jacksonville, Fla., and Minnie (Harwell) Krauss from Brunswick, Ga. Claudia Middlebrooks and Mamie (Rowland) Chance roomed together in 1930 as they did in 1884. Mary Toombs (Jones) Cox came up from Waynesboro with Mamie. Matilda (Morton) Snelling, wife of the Chancellor of the University of Georgia, and Lula (Murphy) Matthews of Ft. Valley were with their classmates on Alumnae Day, Saturday. And Martha Rogers and Annie (Rushin) Willingham were the Macon members present.

From Absent Classmates

And deep were the regrets of those who could not be present!

Charlie (Cheatham) Laing of Dawson, sister of Fannie Cheatham, wrote:

"There hasn't been a day since receiving the invitation from our Alma Mater that I haven't thought of our reunion at dear old Wesleyan. I can't think of anything more delightful than to be a guest in the beautiful new home where I am sure a royal entertainment awaits those who can enjoy her hospitality. And to think of meeting with dear classmates again. How delightful! But I am denied the pleasure. For five months I have been a shut-in, suffering a great deal most of the time. I am up now, but not able to make the trip. It is a great disappointment. To look into your faces and feel the warm hand-clasp would mean so much to me. But I will be with you in spirit and will live over again in memory, the happy college days. God bless each of you!"

 President, George Foster Pierce*

Cornelia (Smith) Holtzclaw, who since Commencement has had the sorrow of losing her husband wrote:

"I wish it were possible for me to be there, but we have had illness in the home since early in January. It would be a great pleasure to meet those of the old girls who are left."

From Middleburgh, N. Y., came this message from Clara (Dunlap) Badgley:

"If we had not made our plans I surely would come down to be one of my class with you all once again—and try to be a girl again. Do send me a line after the reunion and tell me all the news."

But the message from New York did not come from the greatest distance. From Ella (Granbery) Tucker, in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Paysandu 155, is this letter:

"I would like to attend our class reunion but it is not probable that I will be in the United States at that time. Our daughter lives in Boston, so we do not often get down South, and I have never had the pleasure of visiting my Alma Mater since I graduated."

Fitzallen (Wright) Kendall and Hannah Hines, of Macon, were both unable to be at the reunion on account of illness, and both sent greetings to their classmates.

In the class notes of 1884 is a letter from a daughter of one member of 1884, Exa (Preer) Colzey.

Reunion of 1885

Dear Girls of '85:

I am writing this with a heart full of gladness and sadness too—gladness at the thrill of seeing old classmates again and sadness at the thought of you who could not come. Those of us who were back for Commencement were:

Willie (Swoll) Sawyer, Mary Lizzie (Leverette) Taliaferro, Annie (Cargill) Cook, and then Bessie (Goodwyn) Artope, Bella (Harris) Cohen, and I were out from Macon during the day. Amelia (Shankle) Perkins came down on Sunday. And how like old times it was to gather in groups of twos and threes to talk over your affairs and mine.

Others will tell of the order of the day, but I must say just a word about the college. As we came out of the parlors after the Saturday afternoon tea, the sun was just setting, and the sky was a golden glory. High up between the library and Freshman Hall hung a pale blob of a moon and two bright stars. New Wesleyan is a place of beauty closely binding the traditional charm of old Wesleyan and the memories of our days.

It was wonderful to be there to share in the delights of the 1930 Commencement, but it was sweeter to see old friends and talk old times. Our next reunion is to be in 1934, and I hope that every one of you will be able to come. Let's have a 100 per cent reunion in 1934.

Dear Classmates of 1901:

I enjoyed a most delightful time at Wesleyan Commencement. Most of all I regretted your absence, and that you may have some news of the return of the "old girls," their pleasant association together, renewing old ties and friendships, I will tell you some of my impressions of the recent occasion of Commencement.

Since our graduation in 1901, it has been my pleasure to attend only one other Commencement at Wesleyan, this being the year of my daughter, Evalyn's, graduation.

I arrived at Wesleyan, Ga., Friday afternoon and there Miss Rivers, one of the teachers, met me and carried me to the college. On registering at the loggia, I found I was to room with Mary Addie (Murph) Mullino of Montezuma. Can you imagine finding your roommate and having your room as a real Wesleyan girl again?

Next door were Louise (Peddy) Wadsworth and Ouida (Beauchamp) Winn who came on the Atlanta bus shortly after my arrival.

On Saturday the chapel hour was given to reunion classes. You remember our graduation dresses of white wash chiffon with full skirts and long trains? Mine I carried with me, and introduced worn by a small member of the class of 1930 as a reminiscence from the class of 1901. The girl who wore it said she almost choked to death in the waist, and I can hardly believe that my proportions were ever so small. I spoke to the "old girls" of my great happiness in being the grandmother of little Sara Helen Huie of Albany, the daughter of Sara Helen (Crittenden) and Malcolm Huie. Can you imagine my pride?

For the beauty and spacious appointments in every detail of the Greater Wesleyan, may I not say that every Wesleyan alumna may feel an unbounded gratitude? Shall we not join hands in strengthening its splendid proportions with our loyalty, love, and support? Our Alumnae building will speak for this.

Dear Classmates, permit me once more to express my regret that you did not share with me the pleasures of the Wesleyan Commencement. Will you not plan now to come for our next reunion?

Helen (Land) Crittenden.

Dear Classmates:

Two years ago when I attended Alumnae meeting at what is now the Wesleyan Conservatory, I made a vow that when my class had a reunion I would certainly attend.

So when the invitation came this year to meet with my class of 1901, I began my plans. Louise (Paddy) Wadsworth, '02, and I got together and made our plans to go together by bus, May 30. When we arrived at Rivoli, we were greeted by charming girls who had us register. We were presented with an envelope containing a program of the Commencement festivities, a badge of lavender and purple ribbon to which was attached our married name, maiden name, address and class. They showed us to our room in Freshman Hall. My! Such lovely rooms! I felt as if I were in some fine hotel!

Helen (Land) Crittenden and I soon found each other and began to talk over our college days. She and I were both from Jackson, and had known each other all our lives. She told me she was an adoring grandmother, and I could say the same thing. My grandson is Thomas Ralph Harmon, Jr., of Knoxville, Tenn.

Two town girls of '01 were with us, May Bell (Adams) Davis and May (Mumford) Lowe. They were with us at the lovely Alumnae Tea Saturday. May King, a teacher in Druid Hills High School, was to have joined us, but could not come. She has just recently won her M.A. degree at Emory University. Pearl Coleman's sister, Almena, was there with her class of 1904.

The class of '01 can boast of a former "Alumnae Trustee," Dorothy (Rogers) Tilly.

The visitors to the Conservatory for the graduation exercises there and the Sacred Concert Sunday evening brought back many pleasant memories dear to my heart.

Everything was done for our pleasure and comfort, and the reunion was indeed a very memorable occasion. Here's hoping we may meet many more of the 1901 girls when we have another.

Ouida (Beauchamp) Winn.

What we lacked in length, we made up in strength—A happy bunch we were.

Matibel (Pope) Mitchell our "first honor graduate"—for that is the way she was dubbed—responded graciously in Mattie (Hatcher) Flournoy's absence, Mattie having been detained with a broken wrist. We were so sorry. My, how we missed Mattie! She always lends spice and genuine cheer. It just took Matibel to tell that class '02 was the first to publish an annual as well as the first to put on a Senior Play—Scenes from "The Talisman," it was.

All honor to Bertha (Pate) Royal—not to mention Mr. Royal, who were there for the third time to see a degree conferred upon one of their daughters. Seated by their side was the fourth one—who was all excited to hurry back to Cordele for her degree from High School that same night—expecting to enter Wesleyan in September.

Louise (Paddy) Wadsworth and Annie (Daniel) Brown were there from happy homes—each full of love and enthusiasm for dear old Wesleyan.

Annie E. (Williams) Pearce had written her real regrets. No member of '02 could have been missed more, because no one is more loyal—no one loves the girls more. Heartiest good wishes from the class go to her in her new relations. Mr. Pearce is fortunate.

No message came from any others. Somehow we felt they were there in spirit, since the ties formed back in '02 are among the things invisible, which time nor space can ever sever.

I must express my personal appreciation for the pleasure and privilege of being present. My heart swelled with gratitude and pride to see the grand old institution with its splendid equipment—lending greater honor and glory to her fair name, than ever in her history. Any girl should be proud to claim her as her Alma Mater.

I deem it an honor to be called upon to lead the Sunday Morning Watch Service. It was my joy to render, in my unworthy way, this simple act of service.

Mary Addie (Murph) Mullino.

The class of 1903 was represented by five members at Commencement despite the fact that Lucy Lester, class president, was in Europe for the summer and was therefore unable to plan the reunion. Ella (Christie) Melton brought two Dawson members of 1903 besides herself in her car (thanks to another of those obliging alumnae husbands who so patiently spend Commencements waiting in Macon while their wives reunite). Lois (Little) Fleming came from Waycross and Bessie (Houser) Nunn from Perry.

Nineteen hundred three can boast of having had two alumnae trustees, Lucy Lester and Bessie (Houser) Nunn, as well as two missionaries, Bessie (Houser) Nunn, who has returned from the foreign field, and Kate Cooper, still in Wonsan, Korea.

Bessie took the floor at the Alumnae meeting Saturday morning of Commencement, and in her enthusiastic, charming manner, told about the history and accomplishments of her classmates.

Reunion of 1904

Dear Girls of 1904:

This is really the hardest job I've had in a long time—to try to tell you of the reunion in the space allotted me.

Those of you who could not come will never know what fun you missed. Upon first sight of each other, we hugged and squealed with the joy of real college girls, some of us meeting for the first time since graduation. You will see from the picture who was here and just how we looked. And I must tell you absentees that those present made quite a fine impression and you would have been proud of 1904's representation, although Almena, after looking us all over said, "I declare, you all look like you were born in 1904 B. C.!"

How you would have enjoyed Almena!—that same sweet, bright girl, keeping us roaring with laughter the whole time. Those who stayed at the college talked and giggled until four A. M., that first night and until one the next which is proof of the fun we had. We were actually called down by one of the officials, but we considered it quite a compliment for it made us feel like real college girls again.

After the alumnae meeting, lunch, and the class picture, some of the girls went in to old Wesleyan to view the more familiar surroundings of college days, see their rooms, the same old bowl and pitcher, dresser and bed, and let memory have full sway. They really came back to the new plant with a deeper love for the "oldest and best" and with hearts filled with gratitude for the privilege of returning.

At five in the afternoon the college gave a tea for all the visiting alumnae and what a beautiful sight that was! My! How I wish you all could have been here. We missed, too, our comrades of 1901, '02, '03. Only a few of them were back.

At 7:30 we went to "The Oaks," the home of Clare (Johnson) Walker of the class of '99, where we had our class banquet. There were read the answers to the questionnaires that were sent out and heard from those present any news of other classmates. We tried to sing our songs. Gladys (Tilley) Chambers read the Poem and Louise (Fisher) Pope was to read the History but couldn't for lack of time. We showed old and new pictures and enjoyed many delightful interruptions of "Don't you remember?" etc.

Each girl present told something of her accomplishments and her family. I wish that I might tell here of each girl, but I hope to send a letter out soon to those who were absent, when I can brag a little and tell you the little intimate details.

We had telegrams from Ella (Reese) Phillips, Florrie (Bryan) Milton, and a lovely basket of flowers from Jewel (Davis) Scarborough which were all greatly appreciated.

Martha (Weaver) Sutton has started a round robin letter, which is now in my possession and I shall enclose a list of the class and pass it on. But please, girls, don't let it linger long; put yours in it and send it on. When Mattie gets it back I think I shall go to Atlanta and spend the day with her.

The Alumnae Association has for its goal our alumnae house by 1936, Wesleyan's centennial year. Wouldn't it be fine for us all to have a part in this building of love and then come back for a real jubilee time. Of course, it will not be our reunion year again, but let us plan to come back one hundred per cent strong. We can make it the greatest time in the "history of the college." If each alumna will do her part, whether large or small. Let's fill the college and Macon to overflowing.

Willie (Snow) Ethridge's column the Sunday of Commencement began with her class reunion:

I am in the throes of a reunion which does make me feel like a Confederate Veteran. The class in which I graduated from Wesleyan (Sure, I was educated once, if you can't tell it now) is having a reunion and all the dear old-young girls are returning, full of tales about either their husbands and babies or their European travels. Tours and children don't go together as a usual thing, I notice. The single girls are the only ones who are filthy rich enough to travel; the married ones just have children and get stout.

Agnes Clark, better known as "Kim," of Louisville, is among the sheep who have been "lost in the wide, wide world" and have returned this Commencement, the greatest Commencement, of course, in the history of the college. According to orders, she came bringing her guitar to make the evenings merry with music. Kim has been doing Europe in her spare moments.

Roaming with her this week-end at Wesleyan is charming Helen (Cox) Ingram, the wife of Howard Ingram, a lawyer. They live in New York; at least, that is where I left them living five years ago.

Beautiful Louise (Withington) Fox, the wife of George Fox of Atlanta, is among those present. She is visiting Mrs. Flewellyn Holt, having motored down by her lone self from the Gate City. George is coming down today to join her and carry her home.

Margaret (Jordan) Sizer, of East Orange, N. J., Sue Maxwell, Margaret (Jones) Roddenbery of Cairo, and a mob of others are cluttering up the scenery. In fact, you couldn't chunk a cat without hitting a couple of old graduates, but I hear you wouldn't recognize them if I mentioned them for many are sailing under men's names.

Among the people who weren't here, but will be here soon is Beulah (Smith) Jelks, of Ft. Lauderdale. Beulah was supposed to reunite as big as anybody, but she and Howard discovered, because of some business matters, they couldn't leave Florida until June 3. When they do arrive, they will be sure-enough residents of our fair city for several months, according to their present plans. I understand they are going to rent an apartment somewhere and spend the entire summer and a little of the fall. Isn't that elegant? Of course, Howard, Jr., will be here, too.

Reunion of 1921

It took a generous dose of real courage to face reunion after almost a decade. It was one of those events that one feels will be happier to remember than to experience. But not so!

From the moment we were whirled up to the entrance until we were whisked away in a cloud of dust, we all had a truly "grand and glorious" time. It was fun to watch the old friends meet. For a few seconds there was silence, then broad smiles, and somehow the years magically melted and we were school girls again, and by night "bull sessions" were holding forth until the small hours.

Lora (Waterman) Burke and Martha (Clark) Baker were perfect hostesses throughout Commencement. For Friday night they had a wonderful al fresco affair planned which helped everybody to get acquainted all over again and to learn about Bill, John, Tom, and Ed and about all the little supplements.

Saturday morning when alumnae classes and clubs held forth in the gym, '21 put on a clever stunt; she also reminded those present of two things—that two reunion members had traveled a long way—Margaret (Jordan) Sizer from New Jersey and Agnes (Pinson) Handley from Ohio, and that '21 was the first class to graduate under Dr. Quillian's regime.

The crowning event of the whole reunion was the banquet at the Dempsey Hotel. It was easy to feel collegiate with old friends on every side and gorgeous red and white flowers that Lora's husband had designed bringing back with a rush old memories of Tri-K. Every absent member was accounted for, telegrams and other messages were read and each member of '21 went away with a feeling of deepened friendship and renewed loyalty, binding the heart of '21 to Greater Wesleyan.

Mary (Fagan) Torrance, '21.

The first reunion of the class of 1922 was nearly perfect from the standpoint of those who were present—and the only thing which might have added one iota to that perfection would have been a 100 per cent. attendance, whereby the circle might have been again unbroken and whereby all might have shared in the happy reminiscences and in the telling of joyous living and happy homes now ours.

The Banquet

Saturday was well nigh perfect. Our banquet down town at 8:00 o'clock was delightful. Helen Owen glorified our school days in her own inimitable fashion thus:

"Tho' we may soon have to part
Engraved will be in every heart
The words which mean the world to you—
Wesleyan and the class of '22."

Josephine Evans had us convulsed for fully fifteen minutes by her toast to "The Ups and Downs of the School Teacher." To true and faithful teachers she reverently and respectfully dedicated the following "School-Teaching Blues Song:"

When September comes with that first Monday morn
And you wish to the Lord you'd never been born,

Schoolhouse a-settin' over the hill
 Starts a-beckoning you and you want to be still,
 And you think of teaching school from daylight till noon
 A-stretching out before you till away next June—
 Then—You get the blues, you get those dog-gone school-teaching blues,
 No more good times, only work, and a lot of duty you dare not shirk,

Oh the blues, oh the blues, oh those doggone school-teaching blues,
 So go get your glasses and your shirtwaist
 and belt,
 A-feelin' like Methuselah must have felt,
 "Miss" on your tombstone staring you in the face
 With no hopes of a partner in life's bitter race,
 Can you doubt that we cry, can you doubt that we sigh
 When we get those school-teaching blues!

CLASS OF 1922

Second Row: Helen (Moore) Person, Mildred (Harris) Smith, Gladys (Dismuke) Newman, Irene (Sewell) Hobby, Isabel (Hackett) Kinnett, Helen (Owen) Forrester.

Third Row: Rubye (Preston) Malcolm, Edith Bayne, Louise (Wilson) Ambrose, Henrietta Collings, Esther (Pierce) Maxwell, Ruth (Holt) Sheehan.

Esther Pierce reminisced delightfully of romance of our college days—of the night of nights—our Junior Prom.

Bruce Cleckler extolled the virtues of matrimony after which she asked the class to stand and sing:

"School days, school days, dear old golden rule days,
Readin' and writin' and 'rithmetic,
Taught to the tune of a hickory stick,
I was the girl of long ago,
He was my bashful, handsome beau,
As you know, 'twas my fate to love him—so,
Now we have a couple of kids."

At roll-call, each girl confessed all she dared to tell about her past and offered what she knew concerning absentees. In closing, Edith Bayne gave a beautiful tribute to Wesleyan, the oldest, the newest, the best, and to Dr. Quillian, who is leaving the college in the fall.

Elizabeth Jenkins' clear voice thrilled each heart in her singing of "A Perfect Day." The singing of the Alma Mater and our own class song brought to a close a day full of memories sweet and associations that will never be forgotten by the girls of '22.

Bruce (Cleckler) Flanders.

Reunion of 1923

For the class of 1923 I want to say to Wesleyan and the alumnae office that we had a good time at our reunion. We were somewhat aghast at the alumnae business meeting to discover that we numbered only seven in the official count, but sober reflection made us realize that this was the seventh anniversary of our graduation and we had done a highly appropriate thing. Moreover we plan to keep on following this plan and increase our attendance each reunion year as our years increase.

That count of seven did not include us all, however, for some of us had to rush back to important jobs or important husbands or important children. Mildred Shelton Stokes, for instance, explained that her job as assistant pastor of Druid Hills Methodist Church required her presence on Sunday, and we were so impressed with her fidelity that we predicted that as soon as the general conference gets broad-minded on the subject she will be elected the first bishop in petticoats.

And then there were others with important matters on hand. Leona Letson has just given up her job teaching chemistry at Wesleyan and was on the eve of marrying a professor from the University of Michigan. She was cumbered with the problems of selecting a trousseau and arming herself with cook-books enough to keep the wolf at a good safe distance. She made the characteristic remark that for years she had gone from university to university trying to get a Ph. D., and then had discovered the delightful expedient of marrying one.

Etta (Steed) Rumph had more to talk about than anybody else, being once a step-mama and twice a mama, and need I add that she did it?

Jimmie (Hester) Bailey was a very distinguished looking attendant on the reunion, for while the rest of us have been growing bigger and better with each passing year, Jimmie has been growing thinner and better, and her black hair is prematurely gray.

Floy (Cook) Stephenson was there, doing her best to be happy in spite of her sadness over her little son, who was killed by an automobile about two years ago.

Mary Rogers and Pearl Woodruff are still clinging to spinsterhood and school-teaching. Mary lives in Baxley and teaches somewhere in Florida. Pearl has been an indispensable part of the Thomasville school system for several years.

And then there was "Sears," or more properly Ruth (Sears) Patterson, looking the same and bossing us all around the way she always did as president of our class. And I think she manages the Woman's Club and the Alumnae Club of Cuthbert with the same high and efficient hand. I thought of adding "Ec" and Echo, her husband and her beautiful little daughter, to the list, but even I quail at the consequences of saying some things.

We expected "Hig," now Sara (Higdon) Rand, to spend the night. But we were not surprised that a lady so close to her wedding had other affairs which prevented her coming. Sallie Jones led us on, too, only to ditch us, it was rumored, for a similar reason.

I, for one, spent a lot of time missing Page (Munro) Merritt, who sneaked off to Chicago to live without letting any of her friends know about it. We shudder to think what sort of society she is keeping in that wicked city, though it would just about serve her right for the scurvy treatment she has given us if Al Capone took her for a ride or Bugs Moran invited her to a Valentine party.

Last among those present was I, Rebekah (Oliphant) Anthony, who had my biggest kick in taking my two-year-old son around and exhibiting him to my friends. I confess that I realized all the time that I was having a much better time than the people to whom I presented him or my frankly bored friends who accompanied me on our tour or the gentleman exhibited, who was open in his expressions of disapproval, trying at times to hide behind my skirts and again becoming actively belligerent. There is a good deal of vicarious satisfaction in showing a professor who in the past was not greatly impressed with your scholarship or native ability your child and saying, not in so many words, "There, perhaps my I. Q. didn't put me in the intelligentsia, but just look at this young genius!" And the professors whom you had fooled always made the most appropriate exclamations such as, "What a wonderful child!" or, "He's the image of his mother, and so handsome!" My only difficulty in the face of such morsels was to keep from shamelessly spreading my grin to exhibit to the world all my molars and my wisdom teeth. Mrs. White makes the best response of all to the stimulus of an alumna baby. She seems to be so genuinely pleased, and she has so many apples and crackers and little cats in her apartment that she manages to make the youngster behave satisfactorily, and his mother finally walks away in a perfect haze of happiness.

Sincerely yours,
Rebekah (Oliphant) Anthony.

Descendants of Founder Attend Wesleyan

One of the most influential friends of Wesleyan in its earliest days, and even before the granting of the charter, was the Rev. John Howard, a resident minister of Macon at that time. This year four of his great granddaughters were in the student body of the college and the conservatory.

When Wesleyan opened in 1928 on the new campus at Rivoli, Bishop Candler reviewed briefly the history of the college from its founding.

"For the second time the Georgia Conference met in the young city of Macon in January, 1835," he said, "and the body took under consideration the founding of an institution of higher learning for the education of women. On the suggestion and advice of Elijah Sinclair, a meeting of citizens was held in June following, at which R. A. Beall, Jere Cowles, Robert Collins and Henry G. Lamar were appointed a committee to secure the influence of the Rev. John Howard, Elijah Sinclair, and John W. Talley, resident ministers in Macon and members of the Georgia Conference.

"These men were to represent to that body the purpose of the citizens of Macon to establish in their city a college for the education of women and to express their willingness to place the proposed institution under the fostering care of the Methodist Conference. The proposal met with the warm approval of the people of the city. A site was chosen and a liberal subscription was made for the erection of the first building."

Just how successful he and his associates were in their mission is shown by the fact that the new college was begun the following year, and has been since its opening, under the control of Methodist Conferences of Georgia and Florida.

Not only in this, but in all matters of church and city, John Howard was a leader of that time. One of the first monuments at Rose Hill Cemetery was erected by Mulberry Street Methodist Church to the memory of this man. The inscription reads:

"This monument to the memory of one well-known and sincerely beloved, is reared by the affection of the church in this city, to whom he ministered in holy things for many years and who witnessed his triumphant death. He was for nineteen years a minister of the Methodist Church, characterized by a burning zeal in the cause of his Divine Master. His ministry was eminently successful in the salvation of his fellow men. As a minister, husband, and citizen, he was exemplary, discharging his duties with fidelity and adorning the character of his Christian profession."

Four great granddaughters of this good man were at the college and conservatory this year. They are:

May Ware Daley and Caroline Blackshear, conservatory, great granddaughters of the late Thomas Howard and nieces of the Honorable Will Schley Howard of Atlanta.

Ruth Smith, college, daughter of the Rev. Rembert Smith of Washington, Ga.

Elizabeth McClenny, college, daughter of Lillie (Jarrell) McClenny and niece of the Rev. Charles C. Jarrell of Atlanta.

Another of John Howard's descendants is Mary Bond Smith of the class of 1892, granddaughter. She is the daughter of the late Dr. George Gillman Smith, an influential and greatly loved minister of the North Georgia Conference, author of "The Life and Times of George Foster Pierce, D.D., LL.D.," of "History of Methodism in Georgia," and of "Life and Letters of James O. Andrew."

Honoring First Macon Alumnae Trustee

In May Mr. Walter Douglas Lamar of Macon presented to Wesleyan a painting, Murillo's "Madonna and Child," in honor of his wife, Eugenia Dorothy (Blount) Lamar, first Macon alumnae trustee of Wesleyan. At the occasion of the unveiling, Edith (Stetson) Coleman, also an alumnae trustee from Macon, made the speech of presentation, saying in part:

EUGENIA DOROTHY (BLOUNT) LAMAR, '83

I represent here today, in the unveiling of this beautiful ornament for this stately room, Mr. W. D. Lamar, a gentleman prominent in our community, a lover of the aesthetic, who sent from Florence, Italy, while on his recent travels, this picture and with it this letter to Dr. Quillian:

"My dear Dr. Quillian: I am forwarding from this place a copy of Murillo's Madonna and Child, which I desire to present to the college in honor of my wife, Eugenia Dorothy Blount Lamar, of the class of 1883.

"In presenting this excellent copy of a famous painting by Bartolomi Murillo, Spanish artist of the 17th century, I do so with keenest pleasure in contributing thus to the beautifying of Wesleyan's halls, as well as honoring a former trustee of the college, who delights to aid in all its good work.

"When it shall arrive at its destination, I trust that those in authority will deem it worthy to be hung in the salon where hangs the beautiful copy of Raphael's best known work, given by Admiral Benson in memory of his mother.

"With profound appreciation of Wesleyan's value, of your own untiring efforts in her behalf, it gives me great joy to establish such testimonial in honor of my wife, a Wesleyan graduate and the first woman in Macon to be made a trustee of the college.

"May the beauty in color, the spirituality of the message which this picture portrays be to the young womanhood of Wesleyan an inspiration along artistic, intellectual, and religious lines."

"This copy was purchased in the exhibition room of the Pitti Palace, near the room in which hangs the original. There is always a long list of artists awaiting the privilege of copying this painting and it is interesting that this one, approved by the National Society of Italian Artists, was made by a woman, Luisa Ceccherini. The rich, warm coloring is most appealing and we are told that of all the Madonnas the likeness of the child to the Mother in this painting is most striking."

Inheriting as she does, the best characteristics of a distinguished Southern lineage, endowed by nature with a brilliant mind and pronounced personal charm, Dorothy (Blount) Lamar has given her best efforts to the social, intellectual, and moral uplift of her home city.

I will mention only a few of the offices she has held:

President of the class of 1883.

Trustee of Lewis H. Beck's Mother's Memorial Scholarship Fund for Wesleyan.

President of the U. D. C. of Georgia.

President Macon Colonial Dames.

President Salon Francais of Macon.

President for five years of the Macon Free Kindergarten Association.

Member Advisory Council, Macon Better Films Committee.

World Service Counsellor, Y. W. C. A.

Member Sulgrave Foundation for Preservation of Ancestral Home of the Washingtons in England.

Director for Georgia of Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation.

Secretary, later President, of the Woman's Auxiliary of her own church, the First Presbyterian of Macon.

Vice-President of the Sidney Lanier Memorial Society.

Vice-President of Board of Tallulah Falls Industrial School for Mountain Children.

Besides being a writer of known ability and a lover of poetry and music, Mrs. Lamar is a graceful and charming public speaker. I have heard her on many occasions, the most memorable being her masterful depicting of "The Passion Play."

A Gift of Beauty

God, our Creator, the Giver of every good and perfect gift, planted in us the love of the beautiful. His son in offering us the gift of the Spirit, in showing us that we should claim and appropriate this gift as our own, taught us that by developing an appreciation of the beautiful we might live in light and joy even though life be filled with trouble and distress.

We strive thus to place objects of beauty in these surroundings for the young life here because we know that every individual is affected by the beautiful whether consciously or unconsciously. We know that the normal human being learns through the eye two-thirds of his accumulation of knowledge. If this college is to develop young people of such character that the tense strain and multiplied annoyances of life are not to overwhelm them, then it is ours to surround them with all possible beauty that they may be strengthened for vigorous effort toward uplifted ideals by those precious memories.

Mr. Lamar places this picture here that "a sweet and tender memory of the beautiful may linger in the minds of these young women like the perfume of roses in the heart of a day that is gone.

Then with St. Paul we say, "Whatsoever things are lovely, think on these things!"

1930 Joins the Ranks of Alumnae

The class of 1930 numbers 63, representing six states and one foreign country, China. Four granddaughters and twelve daughters of Wesleyan alumnae graduated in this year's class.

The class of 1930 has the distinction of being the first class to make a 100 per cent pledge to the Loyalty Fund. On the morning of their graduation the president of the class presented to Dr. Quillian a document similar to the one which the class of 1929 presented and drawn up in the quaint language and flowery script of the first diploma saying:

"We promise to contribute to Wesleyan yearly as long as we live so that its service may continue throughout the generations."

"Throughout the Generations"

In the class of 1930 were five granddaughters and one great granddaughter of Wesleyan Alumnae.

Louise Bridges, who was graduated with the honor, magna cum laude, and was elected to membership in the Phi Delta Phi honor society, is the granddaughter of Katie (Browne) Jewett, '76, who died June 5 this year. Louise's mother, Irene (Jewett) Bridges, is a graduate of 1897. She has one great-aunt, three aunts, and one sister who are Wesleyan alumnae.

Helen Clisby is the great granddaughter of Pauline (Hardeman) Logan, 1842, and the daughter of Louise (Logan) Clisby, who studied music and voice at Wesleyan in 1906. Four of her aunts and one great aunt attended Wesleyan.

Odille Dasher, who also graduated magna cum laude and was also elected to Phi Delta Phi, is the granddaughter of Stella (Hunt) King, '80. Odille's mother, Odille (King) Dasher, is a member of the class of 1907 and is recording secretary of the Wesleyan Alumnae Association. Five of Odille's aunts are Wesleyan alumnae.

Carolyn Gibson is the granddaughter of Mary Louise (Holmes) Wilder of the class of 1864. Carolyn is the daughter of Hattie

THE CLASS OF '30 IN THE LOGGIA

(Wilder) Gibson, '89. Two aunts and one sister came to Wesleyan.

Charlye Matthews, president of the class, is the granddaughter of Laura Elizabeth (Leonard) Matthews, 1862.

Ellen Tudor Ridout, editor-in-chief of the Watchtower in her junior year, is the granddaughter of Ellen (Tudor) Holmes. Her mother, Leila (Holmes) Ridout, is a member of the class of 1892. Two of her aunts are Wesleyan alumnae.

Daughters of Alumnae

Thirteen daughters of alumnae graduates in 1930. Besides those mentioned above, they are:

Louise Beckham, daughter of Florence (Watkins) Beckham, 1905. Louise was a member of the Student Alumnae Council.

Mallette Crum, fourth daughter of Sara Florence (Hamilton) Crum, 1894, to graduate from Wesleyan.

Marian Dean Johnson, daughter of Lucy (Keen) Johnson, '94. Marian was business manager of the Veterropt, and was the only member of the class of '30 to receive both a degree and a diploma from the Conservatory in expression.

Helen Kilpatrick, editor-in-chief of the Veterropt, daughter of Louise (Montfort) Kilpatrick, 1900.

Dorothy Otto, second daughter of Maggie (Mitchell) Otto, to graduate from Wesleyan.

Helen Ross, who graduated magna cum laude and was elected to Phi Delta Phi, daughter of Helen (Roberts) Ross, class secretary of 1904. Helen is the granddaughter of Dr. J. W. Roberts, formerly president of Wesleyan.

Marjorie Royal, third daughter of Bertha (Pate) Royal, 1902, to graduate at Wesleyan.

Virginia Stuart, daughter of Belle (Pollard) Stuart.

Twenty-five Aunts of '30 Graduates Are Wesleyan Alumnae:

Magna Cum Laude and Phi Delta Phi

Seven members of the class won the distinction Magna cum Laude and were elected to membership in the honorary society for scholarship, Phi Delta Phi. They were: Louise Bridges, Odille Dasher, Sara Godley, Winnifred Jones, Winnie Meyer, Caroline Owen, and Helen Ross.

Cum Laude

Five of the class were graduated Cum Laude: Mary Banks, Margaret Garnett, Eugenia Hutto, Louise Mackay, and Elizabeth McMahon.

Officers and Editors

Officers of the class of 1930 are: president, Charlye Matthews, who becomes Class Secretary of the Alumnae Class of 1930; vice-president, Imelda Boger; secretary and treasurer, Alice Katherine Lanier; sergeant-at arms, Marian Dean Johnson.

The president of the Student Government Association for 1929-30 was Nel Mullis, Roswell, New Mexico; president of the Y. W. C. A., Mary Banks, Forsyth, Ga.; president of the Athletic Association, Margaret Garnett, Hypoluxa, Fla.; editor-in-chief of the Veterropt, Helen Kilpatrick, Macon, Ga.; editor-in-chief of the Wesleyan, Winnifred Jones, Statesboro, Ga.

Senior-Sophomore Breakfast

On Friday morning before Commencement, the seniors complimented their sophomore sisters with a breakfast at the Tip Top tea room, according to an old custom of the two classes. The sophomore class colors, orange and green, were used in decoration. Small green baskets were placed on the tables filled with brown-eyed susans and ferns.

Parties for the Seniors

Among the entertainments given for the seniors of 1930 were the tea by Miss Isabelle Kinnett at her beautiful home at Rivoli, the Junior-Senior Tea on May 24, the party by Mary Lou Thwaite, and the annual banquet at the Dempsey with which Dr. and Mrs. Quillian entertained the class.

Silver Service Presented to College

As their parting gift to Wesleyan, the seniors gave a beautiful silver service, to be used for class and college entertainments. Charlye Matthews, president of the class, made the presentation at the tea given for the parents of the seniors, and Dr. Quillian accepted the gift for the college.

Tea for Parents

One of the most attractive Commencement affairs was the tea given by the seniors in honor of their mothers and fathers. The spacious porch of the dining hall, with its tall columns was the setting for the tea, and the hour was late afternoon—just the time when the college porches are most beautiful in the sunset.

Besides the seniors and their parents, Dr. and Mrs. Quillian, Dr. J. S. Rattenbury, who delivered the baccalaureate sermon, and members of the faculty were present. At this time, the parents of seniors had an opportunity of chatting informally with their daughters' professors and friends.

Loula (Kendall) Rogers, 1857, Wesleyan's oldest living graduate, was one of the guests, and entertained the group with a piano solo, Dixie. Julia Bell and Eunice Brinson, members of the junior and freshmen classes, played several selections on the violin and piano, and Dr. S. L. Akers, head of the department of philosophy, played a piano solo.

Everything and Anything

GOLF COURSE AT WESLEYAN

A nine-hole golf course is being constructed this summer on the Wesleyan campus, thus adding another sport for Wesleyan girls next year.

GIFTS TO HISTORICAL COLLECTION

Four recent gifts to Wesleyan's historical collection are:

An interesting copy of The Macon Telegraph and Messenger for June 16, 1881, giving a two-column front-page story about the graduating class, their compositions and readings, their piano and vocal solos, scholarships, medals, etc. This will be especially interesting material just at this time since 1881 is planning its reunion next Commencement.

An old autograph album which belonged to Stella (Marshall) Harris, 1864, presented by Mrs. Henry C. Harris of Decatur through Ouida (Beauchamp) Winn of the Decatur Alumnae Group.

Four copies of The Wesleyan, college magazine, for December, 1905, February and May, 1906, and April, 1909, presented by Annie May (Strickland) Lewis, 1909, through the Atlanta Club.

A copy of the address delivered to the Senior Class in 1899 by Col. I. E. Shumate of Dalton, on the subject, "Womanliness," was loaned to Wesleyan by his granddaughter, Frank Shumate, of the freshman class.

GRADUATE OF 1907 DELEGATE TO CONGRESS IN PARIS

A new honor has come to Sara Branham in her appointment by the U. S. Public Health Service to the first International Microbiological Congress which met in Paris July 20-25. Only two delegates were appointed from the United States to this Congress.

CONSERVATORY SCHOLARSHIPS OFFERED

The Wesleyan Conservatory offered a scholarship in music and one in voice for 1930-31 to the winner of musical contests for high school students given by the Conservatory. Joseph Maerz, director of the Conservatory, has been conducting these contests during the summer.

Grace Pittman of Americus won the scholarship in piano. The winner of the voice contest has not yet been decided.

PROFESSOR BRUCE HAS ARTICLE IN MATHEMATICAL JOURNAL

Professor Claude W. Bruce, head of the department of mathematics, had an article in the American Mathematical Monthly for February on Horner's Method for Irrational Roots.

With L. B. Andrews, Prof. Bruce published jointly in 1928 in the Astronomical Journal, an article on the position of the moon as determined from occultations of stars.

REGARDING ALUMNAE-COLLEGE WEEK

"This is one alumna who certainly does want Alumnae-College Week again, and I have no suggestion to make as to change of date, etc. I feel that I am a charter member of this new institution, and am very proud of it. Next year I shall go again to listen and to learn and will do my best to interest some of my classmates. My one request would be that Dr. Hickman asked again to be the leading speaker."

Belle (Stewart) Wooten, 1888.

Clubs

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT THE CLUBS

The A-grade clubs which have met regularly during the year, had benefits, corrected lists, and promoted some program for the high school seniors, are as follows:

Atlanta, Griffin, Terrell County, Miami, Fla., and Macon.

Griffin has started a Wesleyan Scholarship.

Cuthbert entertained the high school and Andrew College seniors.

Augusta had a Tea for the new students coming to Wesleyan in the fall.

Cartersville had a benefit tea for the girls at home during spring holidays.

Newnan had a Tea for high school seniors.

Waycross had a party and benefit.

Wrightsville entertained the high school girls.

Miami, Fla., had two rummage sales and assisted at the high school.

Lakeland, Fla., had a Tea for seventy high school girls.

Terrell County had a rummage sale.

Savannah had the largest single entertainment for the high school when she gave a Tea for the 200 high school seniors in Savannah on All-Wesleyan Day.

Atlanta Club Activities

The outstanding activities of the club for the year 1929-30 included:

1. The placing of a Wesleyan exhibit at the National Educational Convention held in Atlanta last summer.

2. Co-operation with other clubs of Atlanta in Forget-me-not Day for Disabled Veterans.

3. Collecting of valuable books, college catalogs and magazines for the library.

4. A reception at the Druid Hills Golf Club in honor of the Atlanta girls who were leaving for Wesleyan in the fall.

5. A luncheon in January in honor of Jennie Loyall, alumnae secretary. Fifty alumnae were present. A beautiful set of dinner plates was presented to the president of the club, Lucy (Evans) Stephens.

6. A benefit given by Group I, including the alumnae of classes 1920-30, netting $120 for the Alumnae House.

7. Correcting of Atlanta Alumnae lists.

8. Meetings of the executive board to plan work for the year, three meetings of the Atlanta Club as a whole, numerous meetings of the various groups.

9. Work among the high school students, consisting of active publicity for Wesleyan in the eight high schools of Atlanta. A committee from the club was sent to each high school and gave a special program.

10. Three representatives at Alumnae-College Week, and 21 representatives at Commencement.

11. Publicity in the Atlanta papers covering every activity of the club, and reports to the Alumnae Office of all activities.

Atlanta Group Meetings

The various groups of the Atlanta Club have had many meetings this spring. Group 1910-1920 met with Dorothy (Smith) Bagwell in June and elected Gertrude (Cotter)

Woodward, '13, chairman and Gladys (Slappey) Maddox, '13, co-chairman.

Group 1920-30, under Irene (Sewell) Hobby, won the silver cup for the best work during the past year. They sponsored a fashion show and tea at Rich's this spring and have held monthly meetings since January.

ANNIE (BATES) HADEN HONORS PRESIDENTS OF ATLANTA CLUB

Honoring Lucy (Evans) Stephens, retiring president, and Kathleen (Holder) Griffin, incoming president of the Atlanta Club, Annie (Bates) Haden entertained the Wesleyan body of Atlanta with a delightful tea at her home on Peachtree Rd. July 15.

Favors simulating miniature diplomas from Wesleyan, which, when opened, revealed attractive pictures of the historic old Wesleyan chapel and the handsome new buildings at Rivoli were among the unusual features of this party.

Exquisite flowers from the gardens of the hostess greeted the guests, being effectively arranged throughout the rooms of the spacious home.

The youngest group of graduates gave a delightful skit which they called "Wesleyan Days." It was a series of years; 1836, State-ly Minuet, by Christine Glausier and Mary Cotton; Crinoline and Chignons, Frances Just in costume; Gay Nineties, Edna George; 1930, Marian Gertman. There were gaily decorated tables where girls attractive in costumes of the thirties and sixties presided. Laurian Johnson and Sue (Tanner) McKenzie gave out the favors from a beautifully colored basket.

Letter from Mr. Beck

A delightful letter from Mr. Lewis Beck, one of Wesleyan's most beloved friends, was read, expressing regret that he could not be present.

Invited as special guests of the occasion were Dr. Harvey Cox, president of Emory University, and Mrs. Cox; The Atlanta trustees of Wesleyan and their wives; Judge and Mrs. H. Warner Hill, Judge and Mrs. John S. Candler, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Shelton, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Candler Dobbs, Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Pierce. Mrs. Stephens is also a trustee of the college. Dr. and Mrs. G. R.

Glenn, Dr. Glenn being at one time a teacher at Wesleyan, were invited.

Assisting Mrs. Haden were the officers of the Atlanta Club, Lucy (Candler) Heinz, Nannaline (King) Byrd, Emily (Melton) McNelly, Maybelle (Jones) Dewey, Katherine (Catchings) Ware, Mildred (Shelton) Stokes, Ida (Price) Truitt, past president, also the chairmen of groups, Anne (Trippe) Rambo, Dorothy (Rogers) Tilly, Gertrude (Cotter) Woodward, Exa (Brown) Bryant, and Irene (Sewell) Hobby.

Serving at one of the attractive punch tables was a group of the alumnae, Minnie (Adams) Dorsey, Elizabeth (Hines) Jones, Leola (Houser) Holliday, Frances (Nunnally) Napier. At the other were a group of girls who will be at Wesleyan in the fall, Mary Ruth Senter, Emma Stephens, Wilhelmina Dougherty, and Ruth Key.

The guest list included all alumnae of Wesleyan College living in Atlanta and Decatur. Among these were a charming group of alumnae of the early 70's, and a member of the class of 1857, Rowena (Gunby) Mitchell, who, with Loula (Kendall) Rogers, is the oldest living alumna of the college. The girls who will be at Wesleyan next year were also included in the list of special guests.

Alumnae Association

ALUMNAE TRUSTEE

Margie Burks, A.B. 1905, was unanimously elected alumnae Trustee to succeed Bessie (Houser) Nunn, A.B. 1903, whose term expired this year. For the first time only one candidate was nominated by the committee of the Alumnae Association, but ballots were sent out as usual, and the candidate received the hearty approval of the Association.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT, 1929-30

Your president, in beginning this report, is profoundly impressed with the thought of Wesleyan's Centennial Anniversary. In just six years from now, Wesleyan celebrates the one-hundredth anniversary of her founding! Can any of her daughters fail her? She has stood through storm and stress, through fat years and lean years, and has never failed to send forth to the world her daughters, equipped physically, mentally, and spiritually for Christian citizenship. As the oldest Alumnae Association in the world, our organization has an unusual responsibility!

Alumnae-College Week

During the past year, interesting work has been done. Outstanding was Alumnae-College Week, April 7-10, with its truly splendid program of lectures arranged by our capable Executive Secretary, Miss Jennie Loyall. The willing co-operation of members of Wesleyan's faculty, and the series of lectures provided for by the Belk Lectureship Fund, delivered by Dr. Frank Hickman of Duke University, together with Miss Loyall's genius for arranging things, made this wonderful week possible. Those who were able to accept Wesleyan's invitation to "come back for three days" were not only inspired with the enthusiasm and pleasure which a visit to Wesleyan always produces, but also felt the cultural and spiritual uplift which such a week could not fail to give. This is Wesleyan's first move in stimulating an intellectual fellowship with her alumnae, and Wesleyan is among the first colleges to offer her alumnae such a treat!

Alumnae Council

An Alumnae Council meeting was held at the close of Alumnae-College Week, April 10. Clever stunts were given by members of the student body, suggestions for class reunions were made by Octavia (Burden) Stewart, also an interesting talk by Mary (Nicholson) Ainsworth of her visit to the home in China of Chaing Kai-Shek and his wife, May Ling Soong, of the Wesleyan class of 1916. Work done by group chairmen was reported and Marian (Padrick) Woodard discussed the Loyalty Fund.

The Loyalty Fund

This fund is growing as you have observed if you read page 153 of the November Alumnae magazine. How wonderful it would be if everyone of our 4,000 alumnae would make even a small contribution. Last year only 516 responded, and that is such a small per cent of our members. We now have more than $2,500 on deposit and drawing interest, and it is hoped and expected that this year will show a marked increase.

Beauty Shop

The Macon alumnae have operated the "Vanity Box" at Wesleyan College on part time, and have also gone into real business in the operation of the Beauty Shop at Wesleyan Conservatory under the management of Adolphe. "Maison Adolphe" is already well established here, and Wesleyan alumnae are able now each month, from their percent of the gross profits, to add a nice sum to the Loyalty Fund. If you have not already done so, pay a visit to "Maison Adolphe" at Wesleyan Conservatory.

Cook Book

As several new cook books are on the market just at this time, it has seemed best to defer the revision of Wesleyan Cook Book for a while, until the committee can hope for a favorable sale of books.

Wesleyan Clubs

Accounts of the fine work done by Wesleyan Clubs have come to us, and although many more clubs should be formed, it is gratifying to note the earnestness and progress of those that have reported. The contact with high schools and the interest aroused in them for Wesleyan is especially to be commended. Atlanta, Savannah and Miami have taken the lead in this line. In April, an attractive program of stunts was given by Wesleyan students at Lanier High School in Macon. This program was presented by Pauline (Pierce) Corn, and your president closed it.

Now, when colleges are seeking not numbers so much as students of fine moral tone, earnest students, those physically and mentally fit, it is gratifying to observe that of the 1929-30 freshmen, 39 were honor roll high school graduates, 19 honor graduates, and a good number of others were basketball captains, editors of school publications and class presidents.

Alumnae House

Now, your president wishes to suggest a slogan for your consideration, "Wesleyan Alumnae House for Wesleyan Centennial." The plans are waiting and your chairman, Octavia (Burden) Stewart, is anxious to go forward with them. With your real co-operation, this can be accomplished. The will to do is two thirds of the accomplishment. Can we not pledge our best efforts for it now?

Wesleyan's Standing

Dr. Quillian has shown us what vision and Christian faith can accomplish. Greater Wesleyan will always be a monument to his genius and service. The expansion program was begun in 1923. See what has been performed in seven years! At present, Wesleyan is approved by the Association of American Universities, and holds membership in the Association of Georgia Colleges, the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States, the American Association of Colleges, and the American Association of University Women.

Dr. Quillian

Your president feels that every member of this organization is truly grieved at the thought of Dr. Quillian's leaving Wesleyan. His place cannot be filled, for the students, the faculty, the trustees, and the alumnae will keep him always in their hearts. Your president recommends that resolutions of regret be passed at this meeting.

Your president wishes to express to you the pleasure and interest she has felt at all times in the performance of the duties of her office, and also her appreciation of the splendid co-operation of officers, chairmen and members at all times.

Respectfully submitted,

Ruby (Jones) Grace, President.

CHANGES IN CONSTITUTION

The following changes were made in the constitution of the Alumnae Association at the annual business meeting of Commencement:

By-Laws, Article II.

"A business meeting of the Association shall be called by the president in March" was changed to read: "A business meeting of the Association shall be called by the president in the spring."

By-Laws, Article III.

"A committee of five shall be appointed by the president triennially in March to nominate officers" was changed to read: "A committee shall be appointed by the president triennially to nominate officers."

CLASS REUNIONS

Twelve classes were invited to assemble at Wesleyan for reunion in 1930. These were:

1882, 1883, 1884, 1885,
1901, 1902, 1903, 1904,

1920, 1921, 1922, 1923.

Wesleyan entertained 116 members of these classes Commencement, 1930. Their class secretaries wrote, or appointed committees to write, to members of the classes, and the Alumnae Office sent invitations to each member, graduates and non-graduates. At the Council Meeting in April, Octavia (Burden) Stewart of the class of 1906, told of how she planned the reunion of her class in 1929.

Dinners, teas, and meetings of various kinds were planned for these classes while at Wesleyan. Each class was given a few minutes at the business meeting Saturday, May 31, to tell some interesting facts about the class, or to present a short skit.

Reunion classes in 1931 are:

1878, 1879, 1880, 1881,
1897, 1898, 1899, 1900,
1916, 1917, 1918, 1919.

REPORT OF CLUBS

The year comes to a close with alumnae clubs in their various activities still at work, and doing their part for their Alma Mater. A spirit of enthusiasm and co-operation has been evident in most of our clubs, and a resume of the work of the year proves most gratifying.

The number of clubs on our roll is 57; the New York City Club, formed in March, 1930, being the newest. Of this number six are Type A clubs, Atlanta, Macon, Griffin, Miami, Terrell County, and Cuthbert.

The banner club is the Atlanta Club, whose activities in all lines serve as inspiration to many others. Atlanta has been active in interesting prospective students in Wesleyan, in making a collection of historical data, and in correcting alumnae files.

The Macon Club has sponsored a beauty shop, Maison Adolphe at Wesleyan Conservatory. The Macon alumnae equipped the shop and receive a per cent of the proceeds. This has netted a fine profit for the past nine months. Macon has also contributed to the college a store of bed linen to be used by visiting alumnae.

Griffin has started a Wesleyan scholarship.

Other clubs have promoted benefits of various kinds, in many instances entertaining high school students. The largest single entertainment of this kind was a tea on All Wesleyan Day given for 200 high school seniors in Savannah.

Upon the interest and enthusiasm of our clubs, and on our contributions to our Loyalty Fund depends the future of the Wesleyan Alumnae House. Can we not count on you 100 per cent during the coming year?

Respectfully submitted,

Martha (Lewis) Kaderly,
Second Vice-President.

FINANCIAL REPORT

For the second time the class secretaries co-operated with the treasurer and the Alumnae office in sending out to their classmates the Loyalty Fund letters. Since April, when the letters were sent, response has come from 412 alumnae. The total of the Loyalty Fund to date, including last year's contributions, is $2,238.72.

A chart showing the class quotas will be given in the November Alumnae magazine. This will show total contribution and total number of contributors for the period from November, 1929, to November, 1930.

Respectfully submitted,

Re Lee (Mallory) Brown, Treasurer.

In Memoriam

GRACE (BENTON) MCGOWAN, 1926

Grace (Benton) McGowan, ex '26, died June 23 at a hospital in Fitzgerald. She studied at Wesleyan College and at the Conservatory of Music, Louisville, Ky. She is survived by her husband, Jesse L. McGowan, an infant son, her parents and one brother.

LOUISE (BROWN) WHITE, 1887

Louise (Brown) White, 1887, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. G. Cobb, in Macon, July 1. She had been in declining health for some months.

She was the granddaughter of Joseph Clisby, the founder of the first daily newspaper in Macon, The Telegraph and Messenger, and the first president of its board of education. She is survived by three daughters, one son, and eight grandchildren.

MAY (MARTIN) LEFFLER, 1889

May (Martin) Leffler, 1889, died May 3, 1930, after a long illness. Her daughter, Cornelia Leffler, sent in this information from Miami, Fla., her home. She was one of the best-known and best-loved women in Miami, where she took an active part in civic and religious affairs. She had charge of a large Sunday School class.

ELLEN (WINN) ALMAND, 1925

The faculty and officials of Wesleyan have been greatly saddened by the death of Ellen (Winn) Almand, ex '25, on June 29. Professor J. M. Almand was elected professor of chemistry at Wesleyan for 1930-31, and Ellen's friends in Macon were looking forward to having her with them in the fall. Her little daughter, born in June, died a few weeks later of heart failure.

Class Notes

1862

Next Reunion in 1933

Class Secretary: Mrs. J. O. A. Clark (Ella Anderson), 76 Arlington Place, Macon, Ga.

1864

Next Reunion in 1933

An interesting fact about Jennie (Kennedy) Crichton of the class of '64 is sent in by her niece, Maude Kennedy Myers. When Jennie Kennedy was a girl she studied voice with Mr. J. A. Butterfield in Tampa, Fla. She had an exquisite voice and was his favorite pupil. When he composed the music to "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" he dedicated it to her, and for years the music carried the dedication.

Jennie Kennedy, who later married Mr. John Crichton, was a classmate and roommate of Laura Haygood, first woman missionary to be sent out by the Methodist Mission Board. She taught voice at Wesleyan after her graduation, and reorganized the voice department. In 1890 she died and is buried in Oaklawn Cemetery, Tampa, Fla.

1865

Next Reunion in 1933

Class Secretary: Mrs. A. W. Machen

(Minnie Gresham), 217 Monument S., Baltimore, Md.

Minnie (Gresham) Machen has recently given to the Candler Memorial Library a book written by her son, Dr. J. Gresham Machen. It is "The Virgin Birth of Christ," and the inscription in front of the book reads: "Presented to the library of Wesleyan College by the author's mother, Minnie (Gresham) Machen, class of 1865, Baltimore, Maryland, 1930."

1870

Next Reunion in 1932

Class Secretary: Alice Baxter, 826 Peachtree St., N. E., Atlanta, Ga.

A recent issue of the Atlanta Journal carried a picture of Alice Baxter as she was presented with a bouquet of flowers on the occasion of the planting of a tree in her honor by the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs. Alice Baxter is chairman of the Division of Forestry and Natural Scenery for the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, as well as chairman for the Atlanta Federation of the same committee. In the picture was also former Governor Clifford Walker, who was the first governor of the state to have a tree planted in his honor by the Fifth District on Arbor Day, all of the districts in the state having honored him in the same way at the suggestion of Miss Baxter.

1873

Next Reunion in 1932

Class Secretary: Mrs. Thomas Peters (Kate Ross), 504 Washington Ave., Macon, Ga.

Kate (Ross) Peters wrote: "If I had the magician's art and could go back to the old days of freedom from pain, likewise to the days of my school days at Wesleyan I would gladly 'take my foot in my hand' and hike out to Rivoli for a day of solid enjoyment in acceptance of Wesleyan's very kind invitation to meet the 'old girls' and the new who have trod the paths to learning."

1875

Next Reunion in 1932

Class Secretary: Mrs. L. J. Bradley (Lilly Johnson), Cartersville, Ga.

1876

Next Reunion in 1932

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. G. Solomon (Lillian Roberts), 218 Forsyth St., Macon, Ga.

Sympathy is extended to Bessie (Napier) Proudft and to Pearl (Napier) O'Daniel in the death of their brother, J. H. Napier of Macon. Mr. Napier was the great-grandson of Macon's first mayor.

1877

Next Reunion in 1932

1878

Next Reunion in 1931

Class Secretary: Mrs. Washington Dessau (Fannie Gilmer), 301 Hines Terrace, Macon, Ga.

Sympathy is extended to Mary E. McKay in the death of her sister, Esther M. McKay, 74, who according to friends, had "spent her life in service to others." Mary McKay cared for her sister during her long illness before her death.

1879

Next Reunion in 1931

Class Secretary: Mrs. Cuyler King (Henrietta Nisbet), 320 College St., Macon, Ga.

1880

Next Reunion in 1931

Class Secretary: Mrs. Alfred Truitt (Ida Price), 1027 Columbia Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

1881

Next Reunion in 1931

Class Secretaries: Mrs. W. B. Willingham

(Emma Davis), 63 Ansley Drive, Atlanta, Ga.

Emma (Davis) Willingham wrote as she sent in her vote for Margie Burks as Alumnae Trustee: "I was in college with her mother, and am very proud of the daughter's climb to the top of the ladder."

Anne (Trippe) Rambo recently returned from Colorado Springs, Colo., where she was installed as Georgia's representative at the biennial meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. She was entertained with a tea given by Mrs. S. F. Boykin of Atlanta, president of the Atlanta Federation.

1882

Next Reunion in 1935

Class Secretary: Mrs. C. E. Damour (Laura Jones), 202 High St., Macon, Ga.

Mary (Stuart) Eldredge of the class of '82 has been ill in bed for a year. Her classmates missed her at the reunion in June.

1883

Next Reunion in 1935

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. D. Lamar (Dorothy Blount), Georgia Ave., Macon, Ga.

1884

Next Reunion in 1935

Class Secretary: Mattie Rogers, 75 College St., Macon, Ga.

In trying to locate all of her classmates, Martha Rogers sent a letter to Columbus where Exa (Preer) Colzey once lived. This letter came in May from Bristol, Va.:

"I have just received your letter written to Mother, which was forwarded to me from Columbus. In 1911, Father died and Mother and I moved to Rogersville, Tenn., where her older sister was living. We lived there until 1917, when Mother died.

"It was always her desire for me to go to Wesleyan to school, and I will always regret that I was unable to go there. I have been married now for three years and have a fine baby boy nearly two years old.

"Mother often spoke of her days at Wesleyan and of her girlhood friends. I only wish she were here to attend the reunion of her class. Please remember me to all of her friends."

Martha Colzey Smith.

The class of '84 sympathizes with Cornelia (Smith) Holtzclaw in the death of her husband, B. C. Holtzclaw, Perry, Ga., June 9, after a long illness. Sympathy is extended also to Mr. Holtzclaw's sister, Mary (Holtz-claw) Robeson, '86. Two sons, B. C. Holtzclaw, Jr., member of the faculty of the University of Richmond, and Lieut. John S. Holtzclaw of the U. S. Navy, survive.

1885

Next Reunion in 1934

Class Secretary: Mrs. Bessie F. Artope (Bessie Goodwyn), 317 College St., Macon, Ga.

Sallie (Stone) Branham writes: "I was sorry I could not come to Wesleyan this year. My daughter, Sara, enjoyed her visit to Wesleyan last year with her classmates so much."

1886

Next Reunion in 1934

Class Secretary, M. Kate Neal, 1364 Emory Rd., Atlanta, Ga.

Sympathy is extended to Mary (Holtzclaw) Robeson in the loss of her brother, B. C. Holtzclaw.

Annie May (Mallory) Andrews, 120 Lamar St., Macon, writes that her mother is 86 years old, and is interested in all good things. Not many of the dear mothers of our class of 1886 are still with us. Would you not like to send this good mother a shower of greeting and good cheer cards right after reading the "Wesleyan Alumnae"?

Sara (Nunnally) Harrison is anticipating a visit from her son, Lieutenant George P. Harrison from Schofield Barracks, Honolulu, P. I.

Minnie Fay Rice writes interestingly of a recent motor tour through Florida and Havana, Cuba.

Minnie (Wilcox) Anderson attended a family reunion at her old home, Charleston, S. C., during the beautiful azalea season, and at that time Charleston was celebrating her 250th anniversary.

1887

Next Reunion in 1934

Class Secretary: Mrs. E. A. Douglas (Jennie Martin), Sanford, Fla.

1888

Next Reunion in 1934

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. F. Stone (Ida Lowrey), Blakely, Ga.

Our class joins in the general regret at Dr. Quillian's resignation, which came, as one wrote me, "as a bolt out of the blue," and that he had been such a wonderful Head the trustees were sorely put to it to select his successor.

Sallie (Barron) Ellis is living in Eatonton, her husband having recovered his health sufficiently to undertake some ministerial work this year. Sallie will be greatly missed by the Wesleyan Club at her old home, as she put herself heart and soul in its work.

I learn through Anna Harrold (who said not a single word of herself!) that Florence Bernd is having a wonderful year of travel and study among the world's great works of art and architecture. She was ill for a couple of months, but the hot sands of upper Egypt restored her, and a card dated May 3, from Athens, Greece, hoped the weather would be good for the out-of-door performances of the festival at Delphi which she would attend. Florence had quite an experience which throws more light on the question of the young man to Christ, "Who is my neighbor?"

In traveling to a certain ruin she was put down at the end of a motor trip with nothing in sight, and no one to give information. As she stood wondering and waiting a man came along on a donkey, and in good English told her the ruin she sought was a mile and a half away. Of course the fact that he spoke English arrested her attention, and she asked him for particulars. He told her he was a Greek who had lived in New York, and that he left a brother and other relatives in America, but not in New York. Florence asked where they were located, and to her surprise he answered, "Macon, Ga." It developed that Florence knew the brother and his wife well, and had taught their children in school. So she found someone to befriend her, and enjoyed a donkey ride the rest of the way! Ellen Montgomery, or whoever wrote it, will have to strike out one of those "wides" from her "Wide, Wide World!"

The May issue of the "Emory Alumnus" carried a picture on its cover of Miss Emory Ardis, daughter of Emory's first "co-ed," Mamie (Haygood) Ardis. Emory is a junior at the University of Southern California. She was recently elected to the Order of Amazons, an honorary society limited to a few of the outstanding women students of the institution which has an enrollment of more than 3,000. Mamie (Haygood) Ardis writes:

"Emory is very proud to be an 'Amazon' as it is required that you have fine scholarship and also more than ordinary college activity to be in that group.

"Our only son graduated from law school there last week. He was one of eight to get his degree out of a large class. His father has his room all equipped for him and is glad to have his son in the firm. Our son's name is Atticus Haygood Ardis—we call him Haygood."

Mamie (Haygood) Ardis sent a program of a recital given by her music pupils, for, in spite of being a busy mother and housekeeper, she teaches a large music class.

Jessie Hopkins has been recently elected librarian of the Carnegie Library in Atlanta.

Ray Mitchell, our Zula (Ray's) daughter, is Regional Director of Girl Scout Work with headquarters in Ohio, and has invited Frances, Belle (Stewart's) daughter, to be one of her Councillors, so Frances will spend the summer at a Girl Scout Camp in West Virginia.

The fact that "disasters come not singularly" has been painfully exemplified in Belle Robison-Leigh's family since our Reunion, closely following which her beloved mother was stricken with a long and almost fatal illness, and has not yet regained her normal health. Then in September Belle's idolized son became desperately ill, an illness which has continued for long and anxious months, and from which he has not yet fully recovered. Another member of the family, while on a visit to them, was also stricken with illness, and so the year between the Junes has been one the family would like to forget except for the tenderness and love and self-sacrifice which are deepened by such experiences. The family is at last in condition to be moved to Loon Lake in the Adirondacks, where it is hoped each one will be fully restored to health, and the nervous breakdown which threatens Belle herself averted. Of course the promised article about Wesleyan had to be postponed, but we hope under the new conditions may soon be forthcoming.

Carrie Speer is writing insurance in Americus. The class will sympathize with Carrie in the loss of a dearly-loved niece, Elizabeth Speer, early in the spring.

Frail little Belle (Stewart) Wootten, Gray, Ga., "saved the face" of our class by her presence and enthusiastic interest in College-Alumnae Week. She writes me it was great to sit and listen and learn again in the class room of dear old-new Wesleyan, and though she "felt her brain was too rusty to take it all in," the mental stimulus itself was well worth while, and she considers herself a charter member of this new venture—the only member of the eighteen-eighty-eights! We hope her presence insured the class an invitation for the next one, when we hope to have a larger representation. Belle is spending a part of the summer in Milledgeville, in an apartment near the college, while several teacher members of her family attend summer school there. Belle is Missionary Zone Leader in the Oxford District, and had the pleasure of attending the Annual Missionary Conference in Atlanta in February.

Acknowledging compliments paid "my" sketch on Loyalty letters, and to avoid sailing under false "colors," I must say to Class '88 that the Loyalty stationery was sent me from the Alumnae Office, with no hint of the identity of the one who originated the clever little sketch. My artistic talents are too entirely "natural-born" for public use, and I exonerate "Miss Molly" from any complicity concerning them!

Class Secretary: Mrs. George Watson (Annie Lou Laney), 319 Duncan Ave., Macon, Ga.

The Pensacola, Fla., Journal carried an article about Anita (McLendon) Miller, poet and lover of flowers, at the time of a visit to her classmate, Emma (Walker) Hannah. Following are quotations from the article:

"All of us who love gardens cannot be poets, but now and then there comes one who 'walks in gardens when the eve is cool' and translates the beauty for us so that it is unforgettable.

"Mrs. Clarence H. Miller is one of these. But she has found many mediums of expression. First, loving gardens, she made one so beautiful that others loved it, too, and many found their way to it, and breathed in its beauty and refreshment.

"This garden of roses in Austin, Texas, was so beautiful that Doubleday, Page and Company—now Doubleday-Doran—had a special representative visit Mrs. Miller and one of her first stories was written for them about her rose garden, illustrated with pictures taken by herself. Since that time she has written many articles for various publications, some of the most interesting being those on gardens of Old Mexico.

"Mrs. Miller speaks with enthusiasm of the gardens of Old Mexico. She spent much time in these gardens as a girl, going with her mother, who was a missionary from the Methodist Church. Mrs. Miller is a graduate of Wesleyan College, the oldest college chartered for women in the United States. Her friend and classmate, Mrs. T. V. Hannah, was class poet.

"Besides publishing verse in many publications, Mrs. Miller has won several prizes, one of these in the 1929 Poetry Competition sponsored by the Peoria Book-Lovers Fellowship. Mrs. Miller's poem, 'Sweetheart, Do You Remember?' was chosen from 141 submitted."

In club work she is affiliated with the Woman's League of Voters of Chicago; she is a member of the Peoria College Woman's Club, of the Pan-Hellenic Association, of the Peoria Garden Club and the Women's International League.

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. P. Coleman (Ida Mangham), Masee Apts., Macon, Ga.

Mamey Felton (Hatcher) Grady spent a month early in the summer at Battle Creek, Michigan, before leaving to spend the remainder of the summer in Europe.

1891

Next Reunion in 1933

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. N. Ainsworth (Mary Nicholson), Masee Apts., Macon, Ga.

Mary (Nicholson) Ainsworth's new home will be in Birmingham since Bishop Ainsworth was assigned to the Alabama Conference at the last General Conference in Dallas. She writes: "I am already planning to organize Wesleyan groups in my new territory wherever it is possible."

Class Secretary: Mrs. C. C. Jarrell (Margaret Moore), 1079 Oxford Rd., Atlanta, Ga.

1893

Next Reunion in 1932

Class Secretary: Mrs. R. O. Jones (Louise Evans), Newnan, Ga.

The class secretary of '93, Loula (Evans) Jones, writes:

"I had a pleasant surprise Sunday afternoon—a visit from Lenna (Stevens) Manley and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Stevens Manley. Lenna claims to live in Griffin; however, I am continually receiving cards from her post-marked places of interest far and near, so am inclined to believe that she lives 'on the wing'.

"Gertie Post lives alone at the old home place in Grantville.

"A short visit to Wesleyan during Commencement was crowded with pleasure. I attended the 'Dramatic Recital' and also the Alumnae Business meeting. The new Wesleyan was even more beautiful than when I saw it last. The buildings were losing that new look and the shrubs and blooming flowers were much more advanced. Can you imagine a student's room with a full-length mirror in the entrance door, twin beds, two large closets, and a private bath? That is just the room I occupied.

"My only grand-child, Mr. John Stephen Powell, III, aged four months, lives in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. I have already told him that I much prefer him following in the footsteps of his grandfather Jones and being a Wesleyan Trustee to being like his grandfather Powell, a judge in the Philippines.

"Miss Loyall reports many liberal contributions to the Loyalty Fund in response to the letters I recently sent the class. Among the first of these was a donation of fifty dollars. Let's have our part in the building of the Alumnae House, and every single member of the class send a contribution—it matters not how small it may be."

1894

Next Reunion in 1932

Class Secretary: Mrs. Lucy K. Johnson (Lucy Keen), Wesleyan Conservatory, Macon, Ga.

Ethel M. Allen writes from 32 Lucerne Rd., Shanghai, China:

Alice, Dickie, and I got back to China just one month ago today, and the February number of The Wesleyan Alumnae which you sent to our Paris address followed us out. I received it April 19. I have it here beside me, and see in it that Ethel (Barco) Jackson came out with Bishop and Mrs. Ainsworth. Am so sorry to have missed seeing Ethel. I saw her the first time she came out. I went down to the Astor House to fetch her and brought her out here to have tiffin with us.

"The last three years we have been away from Shanghai when the Ainsworths came. Hope we'll have the pleasure of seeing them the next time they come.

"We had a wonderful passage out on the German Mail S. S. Derfflinger. Went ashore at Portsaid, Columbo, Belawan, Singapore, Manila, and Hongkong.

"We were away from Shanghai a little over a year. It was the first time we had been out of China for over 16 years! So all our friends said they thought we deserved a complete change. We spent the winter on the French Riviera. Our brother Edgar's widow was with us. Our sister, Mrs. Geo. Leohr, came to Genoa to have a little visit with us before we sailed on March 6. We visited her and Louise last May and June in Florence, Italy. Our brother, Arthur, and his wife came in June so we were all together for a little over two weeks."

Lula (Johnson) Comer is again in Europe with a congenial party. They sailed June 17.

Lucy (Keen) Johnson's friends have been congratulating her on the graduation of her daughter, Marian Dean, this Commencement. Marian received both the A.B. degree at Wesleyan College, and a diploma in oral English at the Conservatory, the only student to receive both these honors this year. Marian was business manager of the Vetropt, college annual, a very responsible position in the student body, and took an active part in athletics, debating, and college publications. With Jimmie Lee Overstreet she gave her senior recital in oral English in May. Many Wesleyan girls will remember Marian as one of the "college children" for several years before her student days, even then presenting impromptu plays with Christine and Billy Quillian in the old Wesleyan chapel.

Sympathy is extended to Julia (Napier) Adams and to her sister, Alice Napier, of the class of 1888, in the death of their brother, Dr. LeRoy Napier, of Lumber City.

Mamie (Robinson) Felton's son, Jule Wimberly Felton, was married in May to Mary Julia Sasnet of Jackson.

1895

Class Secretary: Mrs. Phil Lanier (Anna Wooten), West Point, Ga.

1897

Next Reunion in 1931

Class Secretary: Mrs. S. T. Coleman (Edith Stetson), 317 College St., Macon, Ga.

Ethel (Brown) Massee's daughter, Martha, was married May 3 to William McKenzie DeVaughn of Montezuma.

Mary Rix Lawrence, the daughter of Mary Rix (Bryan) Lawrence of Baxley, was married June 10 to George William Sackman of Chicago. The bride was head of the vocal department of the Institute of Musical Art in Jacksonville, Fla. She has a lovely dramatic soprano voice.

Florence (Cohen) Lieberman writes:

"I always associate my happiest days at Wesleyan with dear Mrs. Cobb, and we remained the best of friends until her death. She was a guest in my home before she went to China. I hope to be able to attend our class reunion next year."

1898

Next Reunion in 1931

Class Secretary: Mrs. R. G. Stephens (Lucy Evans), 615 Linwood Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

Following is a quotation from a Philadelphia paper:

"Miss Elizabeth Earle McCain, daughter of Colonel William Alexander McCain, U. S. Army, and Mrs. McCain, of 2527 S. 21st St., who will be graduated from Vassar College on June 10, will then sail for Geneva, Switzerland, where she is to be one of the thirty Americans to attend the International School for Students, connected with the League of Nations. Miss McCain expects to remain in Europe next winter and study at a French Provincial university for her doctorate. Colonel McCain returns to Washington, D. C., for station as Director of the Army Industrial College on August 1."

Elizabeth is the daughter of Mary (Earle) McCain.

Lucy (Evans) Stephens spent a part of June attending Commencements. She and Dr. Stephens came to Wesleyan first where she attended the Board of Trustees meeting and reported on the Atlanta Club at the Alumnae meeting. Then she went to Emory where Allie (A.B. '29) received a diploma from the Carnegie Library School. Her daughter, Emma, graduated from Girls' High School as president of Student Government, made the welcoming speech to a packed auditorium. Emma will enter Wesleyan in the fall. Ida "graduated" from grammar school, and though it was not Robert's year to "graduate", he left home soon after the close of school to go to a job in the mountains.

Class Secretary: Mrs. J. E. Hays (Louise Frederick), Montezuma, Ga.

Robert Preston Brooks, husband of Josephine (Reid) Brooks, dean of the School of Commerce of the University of Georgia, and director of both the Bureau of Business Research and the Institute of Public Affairs, has been appointed to the Kahn Traveling Fellowship for 1930-31.

The Fellowship, which is the largest awarded in this country, carries a stipend of $5,000 and is granted each year to a distinguished American scholar with the object of promoting international good-will through foreign travel. Dean Brooks will enter on his duties during the summer.

Dean Brooks' fellowship comes as recognition of a long career of service to the University and of scholarship in history and economics. He entered the University in 1901 and took his A.B. degree with Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1904. He was the first Rhodes scholar elected from Georgia and graduated from Oxford in 1907 with an honor degree. He was successively assistant professor of history, associate professor and full professor, and became Dean of the School of Commerce in 1920. He took his Ph.D. degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1912. He is the author of several books and many articles on Southern history.

Sympathy is extended to May (Wilder) McClure of Washington, D. C., in the death of her mother, Mrs. Sophie Wilder. Mrs. Wilder died at the home of her son in Jacksonville, Fla. She was born in England, and lived for many years in Macon.

1901

Next Reunion in 1935

Class Secretary: Mrs. Oscar Crittenden (Helen Land), Shellman, Ga.

From Mary (Poage) Smith came this message at Commencement:

"This letter has been delayed, hoping I expect that even at the last minute I might be among those present at the 1901 class reunion. It is impossible though, much to my sorrow. Give all the girls my love and tell them I shall be there at the next reunion. I am under a doctor's care and doing so well that I am afraid to leave home."

Next Reunion in 1935

Class Secretary: Mrs. F. M. Mullino (Mary Addie Murph), Montezuma, Ga.

Matibel (Pope) Mitchell took a party of girls and boys to Europe this summer. In the party are Margaret Murphy, freshman at Wesleyan, and Mary, her sister, who will be at Wesleyan in the fall.

Leona (Snyder) Davis, who was among the reunioners at Commencement, writes:

"It was a real, honest-to-goodness homecoming. I had not seen Wesleyan nor any of my classmates since 1902, yet I assure you that I never felt more at home than on this occasion. I actually believe I feel twenty years younger!"

Next Reunion in 1934

Class Secretary: Margie Burks, West Tennessee State Teachers' College, Memphis, Tenn.

Annie (Barrs) Tomerlin, who lives in Tulsa, Oklahoma, stopped in Memphis in the winter to see Mrs. Burks and Margie, and to have them meet her husband, a prominent Oklahoma lawyer, and her fine son Granville. Granville expects to enter Georgia Tech. next fall. Annie says that Laura Dean '03, who also lives in Tulsa, is as pretty as she was as a college girl.

Mary (Copelan) Evans now lives in Memphis at 221 N. McLean St. Mary is having her son, Edward, prepared for college at Bellbuckle; and her daughter, Virginia, attends Miss Hutchinson's school in Memphis. Mary and Mr. Evans were recently called to Georgia by the sudden death of Mr. Evans' mother.

Woodie (Schley) Campbell of Columbus, Ga., writes:

"Ruth (Martin) Dozier's son, Persons, will be graduated at the Columbus High School in June with first honor. He is a splendid boy.

"We are delighted to have Elizabeth Rogers as Latin teacher in our high school. She has my twins, Woodville and Cooper Campbell, for first year Latin, and both are very fond of her. I, too, am proud that she is their instructor. I think that Elizabeth is going to Cleveland, Ohio, for summer work.

"I hope my girl will be ready for Wesleyan when she finishes high school."

Class Secretary: Mrs. T. J. Stewart (Octavia Burden), Vineville Ave., Macon, Ga.

Jane (Bardwell) Peeler's husband, Mr. A. M. Peeler, is head of the new Dunlap-Peeler Hardware Company, formed recently by a merger of the Dunlap Hardware Co. and the Peeler Hardware Co.

Carolyn (Fulghum) McCord's husband, Fletcher McCord, will be head of the journalism department at Mercer next year during the leave of absence of Professor John D. Allen.

Eliza (Hill) Martin writes: "The idea of Alumnae Week was great, and I am so sorry that I had to be ill and could not attend. That the alumnae can share in the intellectual life of the college is fine and cannot help but promote enthusiasm that will mean much to the college. Here's to old Wesleyan and its alumnae who have 'come to the kingdom for just such an hour as this' and will play a great part in the destiny of our state and nation."

1907

Next Reunion in 1934

Class Secretary: Mrs. Nelson Mallary (Willie Erminger), 117 Callaway St., Macon, Ga.

Nannaline (King) Byrd's son, Madison, graduated this year from high school, and her younger son, Jim King, graduated from grammar school.

Benjamin Dasher, son of Odille (King) Dasher, is one of four boys in the state to stand examination at the state capitol to determine Georgia's representative in the Thomas A. Edison Scholarship contest. The winner from each state is provided with a trip to the Edison laboratory and from the group one student is selected to enter the college of his choice, all expenses being paid.

1908

Next Reunion in 1933

Class Secretary: Mrs. Clayton Buchanan (Mattie Adams), 208 Vineville Ave., Macon, Ga.

Lucile (McRae) Wassell was delightfully entertained in Macon and Atlanta when she visited relatives in June. Lucile's home is in Little Rock, Ark.

1909

Next Reunion in 1933

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. C. Cantrell (Estelle Manning), Carrollton, Ga.

Susie (Brown) Breen is living at 33 E. Monroe St., Jacksonville, Fla. Since the death of her husband in 1918 she has been in the business world. She writes: "I read the magazines from cover to cover catching the same old enthusiasm that I felt in the years 1907, 1908 and 1909, when I was a special art and dramatic art student."

Jean, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Mary Lee (Oliphant) Brown, showed unusual poise and bravery in an accident which happened to her at her home in Lakeland, Fla., recently. During the initiation ceremonies of her high school club, she fell into a well about 35 feet deep. She was blindfolded and carried a broom, a part of the ceremony. As soon as she had recovered from the shock of the fall, she poked the end of the broom into a hole in the well and supported herself by clinging to the broom until she was rescued some hours later. To keep herself awake and to attract passersby she sang, and was still feebly singing when she was rescued, almost fainting from exhaustion, from the well. She suffered no lasting injuries from the experience, however, and received much praise in the newspapers for her bravery.

1910

Next Reunion in 1933

Class Secretary: Leonora Smith, Florida State Woman's College, Tallahassee, Fla.

Ora Lee Camp has for the past five years been in the insurance business, the owner of a fire insurance agency. She thoroughly enjoys her work, and can be at home, for her office is in Winder. She taught music for three years after being at Wesleyan and still keeps up her music, every now and then studying more.

Leonora Smith writes: "I enjoyed a visit recently from Esther (Hosch) Crews. She has been teaching in Perry, Fla., this year. I am going to Columbia this summer, 20 years having elapsed since my first diploma and seven since my last! To say the least, some of the 'cogs' need oiling! Wish I could be at Commencement—especially since my young niece is graduating."

Class Secretary: Mrs. F. C. Reese (Nancy Call Bryan), Roma Boulevard, Ortega, Fla.

1912

Next Reunion in 1932

Class Secretary: Jennie Loyall, Wesleyan College, Rivoli, Macon, Ga.

Class Captains: Martha (King) Johnson, Kathleen (Hudson) Garner.

Ruth (Calhoun) Shackleford has a little daughter, Jimmie Claire, born May 10, 1930.

Kathleen (Hudson) Garner is back in Atlanta after spending the winter in New York, and is living on Peachtree Rd., 2795.

Petrona (Humber) Hean and her little daughter, who is a future Wesleyanne, attended Commencement for one day. Petrona will be in Georgia with home folks for a while.

Lucile Sasser has been elected music instructor in the Nashville, Ga., schools for next year. Since her graduation she has taught music at South Georgia College in Tifton and Whitworth College, Brookhaven, Miss.

1913

Next Reunion in 1932

Class Secretary: Mrs. R. J. Taylor (Elizabeth Baker), 1985 Ponce de Leon Ave., N. E., Atlanta, Ga.

Elizabeth (Baker) Taylor says: "I hurried in order to mail all my class letters about the Loyalty Fund on May 13th, remembering how lucky the number thirteen always was for our class and hoping thus to insure much cash in the Wesleyan coffers for the class of 1913. We will spend the month of June on the beach since Bob, our seven-year-old, has just had a long illness."

Katharine Carnes' research for her thesis at the University of Michigan led her to Alma, Michigan, and was the cause of a very interesting Wesleyan meeting there; for Alma is the home of Susie (Kroner) Shaw, 1910, who is married and lives there with her little family, and of her sister, Louisa, 1925, both old Georgia girls who were delighted to see Katharine and hear Wesleyan news firsthand.

Susie usually visits Georgia every other year and sometimes brings her charming children down to Wesleyan Commencement, but she has not been back to Georgia since her father's death last year.

1914

Next Reunion in 1932

Class Secretary: Mrs. Carroll Griffin (Kathleen Holder), 115 16th St., N. W., Atlanta, Ga.

Class Captain: Eloise (Cooper) Cannon.

Ruth (Rolston) Johnson has a position as teacher in Fulton High School in Atlanta for next year.

Iola (Wise) Stetson sailed June 28 with her three sons for Europe, where they will spend about two months.

1915

Next Reunion in 1932

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. Stanley Dodd (Carolyn Knight), 1913 S. W. 11th St., Miami, Fla.

Class Captains: Jessie (Dickey) Strickland, Mary (Quillian) Poole, Willie Mae Little, Verna (French) Shaffer, Annie L. (Stowe) Fleming.

1916

Next Reunion in 1931

Class Secretary: Mrs. Jesse W. Davis

(Merlyn Hiley), Vineville Court Apt., Macon, Ga.

Class Captains: Lida Franklin, Christine Broome.

Martha Andrew's stay in Chicago for the past two years has been most interesting, according to this account from Willie (Snow) Ethridge's column:

"The fairy godmother does not drop things into Martha Andrew's lap, but she makes all the golden opportunities for herself. For the last two years she has been studying at the University of Chicago and doing juvenile work at Hull House at the same time. At present she is attending a conference in Boston, Mass.

"From there she is going to New York, where she will sail on the Mauretania with a party of Chicago friends for a wonderful European tour which will last until October."

"Martha expects to take up her work at Hull House again in the fall, but her numerous Macon friends are hoping that she will at least make them a visit before settling down for another interesting year's work."

Next Reunion in 1931

Class Secretary: Georgia Baker, Public Library, Main Branch, Toledo, Ohio.

1918

Next Reunion in 1931

Class Secretary: Mrs. J. L. Murphy (Marian Cook).

Class Captains: Ray Ballard, Margaret (Atkinson) Clark, Genie Fincher, Vail (Jones) Weems.

Mattie (Armor) Hale is an associate director of the national Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Her mother, Mary (Harris) Armor, only woman to receive the honorary LL.D. degree from Wesleyan, is director. They live in Greenville, Ga., where Mattie's husband is a preacher.

Katharine (Cleckler) Arnold writes: "It was not possible for me to come for Alumnae Week in April, but I am planning this far ahead to attend my class reunion. My two daughters, eleven and six, speak of 'going to Wesleyan' as if it were next year, and I am looking forward to it, too, though it hurts to see them grow so fast!"

Marian (Cook) Murphy writes: "I'm dreadfully sorry I live so far away that I can't return to Wesleyan now and then for visits. I hope some day to be able to come back for a reunion of my class of '18 and some sister classes. I am enclosing a small contribution for the Loyalty Fund. Let it come from my son, James Carroll Murphy—two years old—and as he grows, may it grow too." Marian's address is changed from Brooklyn to 69 Pine St., Rockville Centre, New York City.

Mayme (Houser) Rice lives at 1001 Eighth Ave., Birmingham, Ala. She writes: "I have a husband and four children."

Martha (Rolston) Henderson works in the periodical department of the New York Public Library. She is in the main library on Fifth Avenue and 42nd St., and handles every month around 25,000 magazines which is only a fraction of the magazines the library receives. Last spring she went to Europe for six weeks, visiting England, Scotland, Germany, France, and Italy.

Next Reunion in 1931

Class Secretary: Mrs. A. L. Gilmore (Rosaline Jenkins), 1280 Oxford Rd., Atlanta, Ga.

It's mighty good to be back in Georgia once more and I delayed writing my notes until my arrival here, thinking I could unearth some real news, but all I know now I knew before I left Jackson, so here goes:

Augusta (Streyer) Miller spent two weeks in Wesley Memorial Hospital in Atlanta in May fighting a stubborn case of pneumonia. To further complicate matters, her little girl, Daisy, was quite ill at the same time with an acute attack of bronchitis. They are both completely recovered now, and two weeks at St. Simon's have removed every trace of past indispositions and left them both with a healthy coat of tan. No, St. Simon's is not paying me anything for this ad.

Irene Brinson represented Wesleyan at the dedication of the new library at Woman's College of Alabama.

Mary Marvin (James) Twitty wrote me from Albany, Ga., the middle of May:

"For several years I have planned to write you about my little daughter, Mary James Twitty II, born eight years ago on my birthday. Dr. Jenkins was presiding elder of the Thomasville District then and came to see Mary James and me several times in Pelham. It made me love him more than ever. After my baby came I spent two years in an Atlanta hospital where I underwent about fifteen operations. Since then it has been unpardonable negligence that I haven't written our magazine about another future Wesleyan girl. She is already making her plans to go.

"I've enjoyed having two Wesleyan girls, Ann Taylor and Myrtis Deal, in Albany this year. Myrtis teaches in high school and Ann is the teacher of expression. Last week I spent a few days in Macon with Clara (Carter) Acree. While there I saw Greater Wesleyan for the first time and it is magnificent.

"Wish our classmates would write you a word about themselves, for I'm so eager to read about them in the Alumnae magazine. I'll try to write at least once a year in the future."

I'm sure we are all grateful to Mary Marvin for her interesting letter and her contribution to the Loyalty Fund. If only everybody would write once a year what a care-free existence your secretary would lead!

Believe it or not, I've had another letter this quarter, and I'd like to quote it in toto but space—and modesty (now aren't you curious?) forbid. But I'll let you in on some of the letter from Linda (Anderson) Lane:

"Alumnae Day at Wesleyan Commencement inspired me to break my record and burst into correspondence! I shall probably get no further than you, but Saturday I avowed my intention of writing several of the peppiest members of the dear old class of '19.

"I've been told that the only way to put on a successful reunion is to start right away, and everybody write to everybody else the whole year. I wish we could get together a goodly crowd because I believe we could have a happy time together. I was with Mary Lane and Edith Culpepper at the meeting and at the tea. They swore that they were going to get busy for they reune, too,—1916, '17, '18, and '19. I think it'll be fun to get with that bunch."

I wish each one of us could catch enough of Linda's spirit to make us start now shaping our plans toward Wesleyan in May, 1931. Personally, nothing but pestilence or sudden death is going to keep me away! How many will join me in that resolve?

Class Secretary: Mrs. Mark Ethridge (Willie Snow), Washington Ave., Macon, Ga.

Nell (Bates) Penland has written an article on Wesleyan which has been accepted by a magazine. She writes that she had all plans made to spend the week-end at Wesleyan Commencement, but on account of the illness of her mother was unable to leave. Her mother is much better now. Nell is "anxious to hear all about the reunions, and to know who was there."

Parah Clark is spending the summer in Texas. She and her sister, Sarah, planned to come to Commencement this year, but had to postpone their trip.

Annelu Hightower taught last year in Adel, Ga. She is attending summer school, 1930, at the University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla.

Sue Maxwell received the M.A. degree at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., in June, 1930. Her work was done in English literature, with a thesis on John Masefield, England's new poet laureate.

Class Captains: Frances (Martin) Asbury, Frances (Holder) Aderholt, Floy (Cook) Stevenson, Mildred (Shelton) Stokes, Eloise Bacon, Ruth (Daniel) Harper.

Sarah Clark has a summer position in a camp in Michigan. She will teach weaving in a girls' camp.

Ruth Field writes from the Lambuth Training School for Christian Workers in Osaka, Japan:

"Some day I hope to be able to share some of the joys which are ours here in Japan, and especially the experiences of a kindergarten teacher here. But I must wait for that. This term I am bending every effort to finish the last part of the required three-year course of study of this different and intricate, but interesting Japanese language."

Margaret (Porter) Lewis has been appointed director of a new playground in South Macon. The playground was opened in June as the Cynthia H. Weir playground, named in honor of a loved teacher of Macon.

1924

Next Reunion in 1934

Class Secretary: Mary Thomas Maxwell, Dublin, Ga.

Class Captains: Nell (Lester) Buckner, Aurelia (Cooper) Evans, Carolyn (Fulghum) McCord, Elizabeth Malone, Catherine Craig, Sara Branch, Mary (Harwell) Crapps.

The Hon. Gilchrist B. Stockton, husband of Mildred (Churchwell) Stockton, has been appointed Minister to Austria by President Hoover. In a recent issue of "The Alumni Review" of the University of North Carolina, appeared this article:

"Hon. Gilchrist Baker Stockton of Jacksonville, Fla., recently appointed Minister to Austria by President Hoover was a member of the Class of 1913 at the University of North Carolina.

"Mr. Stockton was born in Jacksonville August 20, 1890, and was graduated from the Duval High School in that city in 1908. In the fall of 1909 he entered the University with the Class of '13 and after one year entered Princeton where he graduated in 1914, attaining the honor of Phi Beta Kappa. In January, 1914, he was selected as the Rhodes Scholar from Florida entering Christ Church, Oxford, where he obtained a law degree as well as a Master of Arts.

"In 1915 he became a member of the Commission for Relief of Belgium of which President Hoover was at that time Chairman. He served in Belgium and France until November, 1916, when the State Department appointed him Special Assistant to Ambassador Walter Hines Page in London "in matters relating to the war in Europe.

"When the United States entered the war, Mr. Stockton resigned his position and joined the Navy, receiving the commission of Lieutenant, Junior Grade, Naval Reserve Corps, and was assigned to duty as aide to Admiral W. S. Sims, Commander of the U. S. Naval forces in European waters, in which capacity he served until the end of the war.

"In April, 1919, he went to Vienna with the American Relief Expedition and in June following was appointed Chief of the Mission to Austria with the task of feeding 300,000 children daily and continued in charge of the work until September, 1920.

"He was awarded the Gold Cross of Honor of the Order of Merit by the Austrian Republic, Chevalier of the Order of the Crown by Belgium, Medal of Salvator by the City of Vienna, and Medals by the cities of St. Quentin and Lille in France.

"He is a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity. Since returning to America in 1920, Mr. Stockton has been engaged in business in Jacksonville where he has been active in the social and political life of the city and state. In politics he is a Democrat but supported Mr. Hoover in 1928 and was prominent in the campaign for his election."

Maurine (Munro) Mauldin has a little daughter, Joan, born in April.

Margaret Richards was one of the winners in a contest put on by the Georgia College Placement Office for a name for their news bulletin issued every week. Margaret suggested "Contact," and the paper now appears with this title.

Sarah (Robertson) Strozier sent a contribution to the Loyalty Fund. She was a member of the old Philomathean Society in 1863. Her home is in Greenville now.

1925

Next Reunion in 1934

Class Secretary: Celeste Copelan, Greensboro, Ga.

Class Captains: Dorothy Dozier, Katherine Harmon, Eunice Thomson, Vo Hammie, (Pharr) Carr, Kathryn Pate, Hattie (Branch) Sibley, Loulie (Forrester) Burns, Mary K. Read.

The class of '25 did not have to wonder, as perhaps many alumnae did, who drew the snappy little "toothpick girl" at the top of the Loyalty Fund letters, hanging on to her vanishing dollars desperately in an effort to save some for Wesleyan. Of course—Mary K. Read. Wasn't it just like her?

Mary Lou Barnwell is Club Director at the Wesley Community House and is very happy in her work. She writes: "Mrs. White was present at one of our Wesleyan Club meetings. Our group is trying to do the 'most outstanding' work this year and we are making plans to raise some money for our dear Alma Mater. Some of us are hoping to visit Wesleyan soon."

A "Babygram" was received at the Alumnae Office in June announcing the arrival on the eighth of that month of little "June Antley," daughter of Neva (Barrow) Antley.

Elizabeth Boykin has an A.B. degree from

New York University. She has been assistant health instructor at G. S. C. W. in Milledgeville for the past year.

Emma McElrath has been transferred from the sixth grade of Alexander II in Macon to the science department of Girls' High.

1926

Next Reunion in 1934

Class Secretary: Mrs. A. E. McIntosh (Dorothy Thomas), 910 Seward Ave., Apt. 308, Detroit, Mich.

Class Captains: Mildred (Jackson) Cole, Mamie Harmon, Roberta Howard, Sadie (Johnson) Langston, Marilee Hutchinson, Frances (Cater) Snow, Elizabeth (Middlebrooks) Carter, Anna Weaver.

Emily Lawton presented her piano and violin pupils in a recital at her home on Vineville Avenue recently.

Dorothy Spearman, Elizabeth Stephenson, and Elizabeth's mother, Mamie (Gunter) Marshall, sailed Friday, June 13, on the S. S. Lapland for Cherbourg, France, for an eight weeks tour of Europe.

Maria Strozzi is now Sra. Maria de Lopez, and her home is Chamita, New Mexico.

1927

Next Reunion in 1933

Class Secretary: Mrs. H. B. Hoover (Loretta Jones) 53 Lexington Hall, Concord Ave., Cambridge, Mass.

Class Captains: Mildred McLain, Elizabeth Coates, Sarah Louise Jordan, Evelyn (Aven) Thompson, Margaret (Fowler) Patton, Celestia Smith.

Cleo Coley had charge of a three week's course in P.-T. A. work given during the first three weeks of the University of Georgia summer school—June 23-July 11.

Esther (Dagnall) Free has a little daughter, Georgia Dargan Free.

Kathleen McGowan, who has taught for three years in Greensboro, Ga., will be instructor in civics next year at Lanier High School in Macon.

1928

Next Reunion in 1933

Class Secretary: Mrs. E. W. Strozier, Jr. (Mary Nell Wiley) Oxford, Ga.

Beatrice Chandler is among the Wesleyan girls in New York this summer, attending the summer session of Columbia University.

Margaret Chapman is again at Camp Segur in Port Clinton, Ohio, on Lake Erie. She is dramatics instructor and has charge of the youngest girls.

Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Professor Leon P. Smith, has been elected to teach at Lanier High School to take the place of Marjorie Jacob, resigned.

1929

Next Reunion in 1933

Class Secretary: Elizabeth Gill, Moultrie, Ga.

Never has a summer vacation begun with more prospects of a good rest than this one, and I believe it will be appreciated more than any vacation for many a day. Most of our girls must be planning "wild" vacations, for they seem to be rather secretive when it comes to discussing their plans!

Catherine Alley will teach Latin and mathematics at Salé City next year.

Marjorie Bailey took Doris Battle's place teaching in Jesup after Doris became Mrs. C. M. Jones and moved to Colquitt. Both Marjorie and Margaret had a lovely trip to California.

Virginia Bull is studying on her M.A. degree in Latin at Duke University.

Margaret Edenfield sent in many of the 1929 notes for this issue of the Alumnae magazine. Margaret teaches at Lanier High School for Girls in Macon.

Helen Kate Forrester will teach at Attapulgis again next year. She teaches Latin and algebra and likes her work very much.

Lois Holder will teach science next year at Lanier High School for Girls.

Elizabeth Jones has a position in the Waynesboro Junior College for next year.

Martha Lamar is working with the Retail Credit Company in Atlanta and is enjoying it.

Sarah Lamon is to be librarian at Lanier High School for Girls next year. She is studying at the Columbia University Library School this summer.

Sara Long, although elected to a grammar school in Macon, plans to return to Tallahassee, Ala., where she will teach English, French and Latin.

Helen Lowe is a councillor at Laurel Falls Camp in north Georgia. She will teach in Havana, Cuba, next winter, and we are wishing her all kinds of luck!

Gladys Moss is in Europe this summer, in spite of the fact that she writes, "School-teaching was never meant to make millionaires!"

Annie Louise Page and Allie Stephens are working in the library in New York for two of the summer months. Page will be in the Columbus Public Library next year.

Lucy Rosser is spending the summer with Marie New in New York City with prospects of a permanent home there if it all conforms to her dreams and expectations.

Nancy Stewart is in Europe for her third visit. We regret that Tom Carr returned to the States before Nancy's arrival in France because we would like for one of us to get that model man!

Naomi Welch is working in the Third National Bank in Columbus and Elizabeth Allmand is with the Southland Pecan Company there.

Geraldine Wheeler will return to Porterdale next year. She likes her work there very much and has spent much of her time doing social work.

Best wishes for a happy summer full of cool days!

Elizabeth Gill, Secretary.

1930

Next Reunion in 1933

Class Secretary: Charlye Matthews, Ft. Valley, Ga.

Virginia (Carter) Baisden, 202 Glendon Dr., Chattanooga, Tenn., writes: "I enjoyed the last Alumnae Magazine so much; there was much about the class of '30. I was a member of this '30 class and it seemed grand to read of what was going on even if I couldn't be there. I've planned for three years to attend this commencement, but the unforeseen prevents. My daughter is most too small to leave or take, being only a few weeks old. I was interested in the arrival of sons and daughters of other Wesleyannes, and am so proud of my own. In your next publication would you tell my classmates about little Catherine? She's really worth it."

Ethel Heath has been broadcasting daily over the new radio station, WAFA in Montgomery, Ala., from 12:30 to 1:00. Ethel is the proud possessor of a very old and valuable violin, made hundreds of years ago in Germany.

Sympathy is extended to Martha (Paulk) Lowe and her husband in the sudden death of their little two-months-old son, Henry E. Lowe, III, in July. The little fellow had been put to bed apparently perfectly well, and became seriously ill a few minutes later.
